

Cong Blast Ammo Dump Near Saigon

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Explosions and fire, believed touched off by Viet Cong saboteurs did heavy damage today to large sections of a huge U.S. Army ammunition dump near Saigon.

It was the fourth time in a little more than three months that the munitions depot at Long Binh 14 miles north of Saigon has been hit.

Dense Smoke
Fourteen hours after the first explosion at 3:25 a.m., smoke still poured from many parts of the dump. It was still too hot and dangerous for U.S. Army demolition experts to enter.

In war action, U.S. B52 heavy bombers staged four raids over South Vietnam today for a second straight day.

American jet bombers flew through intense flak Friday to pound a major rail yard and other targets north of Hanoi for the first time in more than two weeks of poor weather.

In all, U.S. pilots flew 57 bombing missions — about 200 individual strikes — against the north. Among the forays, Navy fighters from three aircraft carriers in the Tonkin Gulf reported damaging or destroying 16 cargo barges and junks on the coast and in inland waterways.

Light Fighting
In South Vietnam, ground fighting continued on a small scale with the U.S. and South Vietnamese military commands reporting scattered, short engagements.

U.S. Marines, supported by air strikes and artillery barrages, reported killing 29 Communists in scattered fighting in the northern provinces, mostly southwest of Da Nang.

Units of the South Korean White Horse Division, operating 15 miles northwest of Nha Trang on the central coast, reported killing 27 Viet Cong during Operation White Horse One. The Koreans claim 183 enemy killed since the operation started Sunday.

In a new U.S. operation in War Zone D, units of the 173rd Airborne Brigade and 9th Infantry Division continued a sweep of the area 27 miles northeast of Saigon without meeting significant resistance.

The multibattalion operation, called Big Spring, began Wednesday.

Hit MP Barracks

The U.S. command also reported that a Viet Cong demolition charge destroyed a building housing the headquarters and barracks of an American military police company at Phan Rang, on the South China sea coast about 170 miles east of Saigon. Spokesmen said 22 military policemen were in the barracks Friday night when the explosion and fire occurred. Nine were wounded.

Ambulance Operators Ask To Discuss Requirements

A meeting with the State Department of Health officials to review requirements of Article 30 of the Public Health Law relating to ambulance services, has been requested by the Hudson Valley Ambulance Association through its secretary, Clifton W. Jones, Saugerties.

The HVAA has submitted to Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, State Commissioner of the State Department of Health a list of requirements the group feels could be met by the majority of ambulance services now in existence without any major increase in operating costs or changes in personnel.

List Requirements

Communication equipment, based on local needs, a type that would provide adequate radio or telephone coverage in the area served, rear door permitting free access to interior for loading stretchers, wheel-litters or other patient-carrying devices, are included in the list.

Regarding personnel requirements, the HVAA suggested to Dr. Ingraham that the driver of an ambulance should be at least 21 years of age, and the attendant should have advanced first aid training, and be not less than 18 years of age.

Jones told Dr. Ingraham that

Czechs Expel Yank Convicted of Spying

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Czech government expelled today Vladimir Kazan-Komarek, an American travel agent who three days ago was sentenced to eight years in a Communist prison for espionage.

The State Department said its embassy in Prague cabled word that Kazan-Komarek left on a commercial airliner shortly before 4 a.m. He was due to arrive in New York in midafternoon.

"Naturally we are gratified that Mr. Kazan-Komarek has been released," said State Department press officer Carl Bertch.

Eases Tensions
The Czech action was viewed in official circles as a step toward easing East-West tensions. The United States had protested the 42-year-old travel agent's arrest and trial.

In Wellesley, Mass., Kazan-Komarek's wife Dorothy said, "I still can't believe it—that he's coming home, actually coming home. I don't think I'm going to believe it until he's actually landed and I see him." The couple has five children.

After Kazan-Komarek's conviction Wednesday, his attorney had requested suspension of the sentence and expulsion of the travel agent. He had been charged with "attempted overthrow of the government and espionage."

The sensational case developed last Oct. 31 when he was arrested at Prague airport when a Soviet airliner en route nonstop from Moscow to Paris made an unscheduled landing. U.S. officials accused the Soviet Union at the time of working with Czech police to deliver an American citizen into their hands.

After his arrest, the United States had stalled issuance of travel permission for Czech citizens to the United States. This is a form of retaliatory pressure for what the State Department had denounced as inexcusable violations of the rights of a U.S. citizen.

In his statement, Bertch said, "In addition to the efforts the government had undertaken to obtain this satisfactory solution of the case, I should call attention to efforts by Mr. Kazan-Komarek's two senators, Edward Kennedy and Edward Brooke, and by his congresswoman, Margaret Heckler.

It was understood Kennedy had, with State Department approval, written a personal letter to Czech President Antonin Novotny urging the travel agent's release. Brooke had wired the Czech ambassador this week, also urging suspension of the sentence and expulsion of Kazan-Komarek from the country.

The three-judge court in Prague convicted Kazan-Komarek of organizing and directing an anti-state group as a paid agent of a foreign intelligence service from late 1948, after the Communists took over Czechoslovakia, until December 1950.

The court said Kazan-Komarek operated in West Germany and France as well as Czechoslovakia. He was charged with smuggling out people "in whom the foreign intelligence service was interested" and in bringing (Continued on Page 5, Col. 1)

Supervisors Must Vote On Survey Firm Choice

The Pittsburgh (Pa.) based firm of American Air Survey, Inc., was selected by members of the Tax-Base Study Committee and the Industrial Development Committee—both appointed by the Board of Supervisors—to prepare aerial property survey maps and a property record system for Ulster County.

The combined committees' selection will be presented to Ulster County Board of Supervisors for final approval.

Selection was made Thursday night at a meeting of the two committees held to interview the three firms applying for the job. Selection of a firm was begun last August at the request of the supervisors.

Estimates Cost at $477,795
Anthony S. Kulis, president of the firm, told committee members estimated cost of the work would be $477,795. He added that due to addition of new parcels as the county grows, this cost is increasing yearly at the rate of $8-10,000. Describing financing plans, Kulis said his firm would carry the financing costs at no interest charge to the county.

It was noted that although no definite figures are available on the cost of such reappraisal, the cost is expected to be equal to or slightly above the aerial survey costs.

Presently studying possibility of reappraisal in detail, the committees said preparation of such property maps are only the first step in correcting unfair aspects of the property tax system.

It was noted that although no definite figures are available on the cost of such reappraisal, the cost is expected to be equal to or slightly above the aerial survey costs.

Assured of Service
The HVAA noted that all ambulances would then be issued permits to operate under the same requirements as professional services and abide by the same law. "The people of the state," Jones said, would then be assured that when the need arose, they would receive the same high quality of service from any ambulance they might summon."

Jones said the HVAA requests a meeting in the near future to review the requirements of Article 30 with the Health Department and any other agency or group that is interested in providing better ambulance service for the residents of New York State.

3 Gunmen Get $10,000 in Loot At Area Home

Robbers, burglars and thieves have frequently invoked an American tradition that is as old as the country itself: strike in the dead of night.

Not so in Woodstock where, at 12:30 p. m. Friday, three flamboyantly resourceful, determinedly unsteady and nattily dressed men, staged a daring $10,000 armed robbery in the broad daylight of a winter's afternoon.

$10,000 in Stamps
Bright sunlight melted the remnants of the light snow that had barely managed to cover the ground the night before and neighbors went about the quiet business of the luncheon hour when a dark maroon-colored car braked to a stop in the driveway of the Harold J. Fisters, 232A Mead Mountain Road, near the base of one of Woodstock's soaring pinnacles. By the time three occupants of the car drove away approximately one hour later, the Fisters had been terrorized at gunpoint and robbers had fled with a valuable $10,000 stamp collection.

According to Mrs. Fister, who was so shaken by the experience that she could say little to a Freeman reporter, the three unidentified men, unknown to her, "came to the front door and held a gun at me when I opened the door." She could give few other details at the time; said only that "I am very upset, my husband is not well and the televation of the county infirmaries at New Paltz and Kingston, but in the erection of new and modern facility with from 300 to 500 beds at an estimated cost of $3,750,000. Cost of renovation of the existing facilities to meet the State Hospital Code against the cost of a new building will have to be studied.

Met Friday
Meeting in joint session Friday night members of the Ulster County Board of Health, the Board of Supervisors' Public Health Committee and the Public Welfare Committee discussed the fate of the County TB Hospital and reviewed the hospital situation in the county from a long range viewpoint.

As a result of the discussion it is apparent that there is a dim possibility of using the vacant beds at the TB Hospital for infirmary purposes so long as tubercular patients remain at the hospital.

Transfer of about 15 TB patients to the state facility at Oneonta was discussed, the cost of conversion of the TB Hospital and the two county infirmaries to meet standards set up by the New York State Hospital Code in order to continue state aid for welfare patients and the ultimate construction of a modern hospital facility were thoroughly gone over.

Present at the meeting as guest speaker was Louis V. Viola, AIA, from the Hospital Review and Planning Council of Southern New York, who outlined the provisions of the State Code and answered questions as to how the board of supervisors might proceed to retain approval of the existing infirmary in Kingston and at New Paltz pending alterations to meet Code provisions.

The question of future use of the TB hospital, where half of the facilities are unused, may come before the Board of Supervisors at its meeting next Thursday.

Dr. Vernon B. Link, county health commissioner, reviewed the county health program and referred in particular to the TB Hospital, an item of $353,945 in the 1967 budget.

With half of the TB Hospital unused, Dr. Link stated that the annual loss from the 25 empty beds is estimated at $182,500, figured at $20 per day. The 15 TB patients now at the hospital could be treated at a state hospital at a cost of $5 per day with a saving of $76,650. The present cost is $131,400.

In his report, Dr. Link stated that if the 15 tuberculosis patients were transferred to a state hospital these same beds could then produce an annual income of $109,500 at $20 per day. He also pointed out that the Welfare Department pays out nearly a million dollars a year for about 60 patients in private hospitals at $40 a day. A large portion of this could be saved if these patients could be cared for in a less expensive institution if such were available.

It is estimated the TB hospital facilities could care for between 60 and 70 patients if converted to non-tubercular patient care.

Has 90 on List

The Welfare Department pays for about 90 persons a day in private nursing. This cost in 1966 was about $219,780 and there is a waiting list for welfare nursing home patients because there are not enough nursing home beds in Ulster County.

In his report Dr. Link stated that it would cost approximately $750,000 to $850,000 to renovate the TB Hospital to meet state requirements. Both the Kingston Infirmary and that at New Paltz will have to be replaced sometime in the future to meet the New York State Hospital Code.

The 315 beds in private nursing ing homes in Ulster, with the exception of 48 beds at the New Paltz Nursing Home, will have to be replaced in the near future to meet Code standards. It is estimated that Ulster County now needs 506 nursing home beds and has a deficit of 69 beds.

Dr. Link stated that a 250-bed institution would probably cost about $3,750,000 with two-thirds of this obtainable from federal and state funds. The resultant cost of approximately $1,250,000 to the county is not much more than the $750,000 to $850,000 estimated to (Continued on Page 5, Col. 5)

Say Apollo Astronauts Tried Escape; Death Due to Smoke

Crowd Attacks China President; Reads Mao Text

TOKYO (AP)—A yelling crowd was reported today to have humiliated Communist China's President Liu Shao-chi by forcing him to recite a paragraph from a book by Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

Japanese reports quoting wall posters said Liu and his wife, Wang Kuang-mei, were "dragged" before a curbside kangaroo court in Chung Nan Hai Park in Peking Jan. 26 and Liu was denounced as a "bourgeois reactionary."

Premature Claims
Other reports said Mao's followers were quarreling among themselves and that their claims of victory over forces loyal to Liu in two major cities appeared premature.

The wall posters said the 69-year-old Liu faltered through the first paragraph from Mao's red-covered book of quotations. "The force at the core leading our cause forward is the Chinese Communist party. The theoretical basis guiding our thinking is Marxism-Leninism," the first paragraph says.

Liu's wife, herself a target of Mao's Red Guards, repeatedly tried to help him, the reports said. They said she assured the crowd that he could recite what they demanded and hurriedly corrected him when he omitted the words "force at the core."

The posters, unconfirmed by other sources and dated Jan. 31, were the first recent indication of Liu's whereabouts.

The Communist party organ Red Flag warned that "ultra-democracy, anarchism, individualism and 'small-group mentality' could cause a great split among pro-Mao groups."

Red Flag, edited by Mao's purge chief, Chen Po-ta, called for a "great alliance" of Mao's supporters. It said strict "revolutionary discipline" was necessary to defeat the forces of President Liu Shao-chi.

one week to the hour after the Cape Kennedy launch pad accident — indicated that smoke rather than fire killed the three astronauts.

List Death Cause
"The official death certificates of the crew members list the cause of death as asphyxiation due to smoke inhalation due to the fire," said Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

In his lengthy report to NASA Administrator James E. Webb, Seamans said investigators still are without direct clues on what sparked the inferno during a test countdown that resulted in the deaths of Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom, Air Force Lt. Col. Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee.

Dr. George E. Mueller, NASA's associate administrator for manned space flight, said three unmanned Apollo flights will be launched this year as scheduled. But he set no new date for the first three-man orbital flight, postponed indefinitely by last week's fire.

Is Preliminary
Seamans said his report to Webb was based on preliminary information not yet extensively analyzed by a review board now investigating the accident.

The report said the cabin pressure, cabin temperature, and oxygen suit supply temperature were normal up to the time the fire was detected at 6:31:03 p.m.

After the third report of fire, the report said, "No other reliable communications were received although some listeners believe there was one sharp cry of pain. Loss of radio signals occurred a few seconds later."

The oxygen supply to the astronauts' suits, which had remained at almost constant pressure and temperature, started to fluctuate at the time of signal loss. It added.

Trained for Stress
In the event of emergency, the report said, White, who as senior pilot was seated in the middle of the spacecraft, had been trained to reach high over his left shoulder to actuate the inner hatch release handle.

Command pilot Grissom, in the left seat, was to lower the center head rest, help the senior pilot lift the inner hatch and remove it to the spacecraft floor.

The pilot, Chaffee, meanwhile was to maintain communication and help remove the inner hatch if needed.

"The crew appeared to follow the correct procedure," the report said without elaboration.

At the time the fire was detected, Seamans said the spacecraft was operating on external power. The fuel cells in the service compartment were not in use, he said, and the so-called (Continued on Page 5, Col. 4)

Threatens To Pullout Of AFL-CIO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Reuther appears bent on pulling his United Auto Workers Union out of the AFL-CIO, high sources in the giant labor federation said today. The break could come in April.

Rebellious and red-haired Reuther resigned as AFL-CIO vice president Friday but stopped short of a complete withdrawal.

May Walk Out
Reuther's latest action in his long-term attack on AFL-CIO President George Meany's leadership raised "a distinct possibility" that the 1.3 million auto workers will walk out altogether, informed sources concluded.

Reuther has conducted a nine-month running barrage of criticism, charging that the AFL-CIO has failed to live up to its aims in creating a better life for workers and the nation.

The auto workers will convene in April. If they quit the AFL-CIO, it would be the first major crack in the foundation of the "House of Labor" built by Meany and Reuther in 1955.

Now 73
Meany headed the old American Federation of Labor and Reuther the Congress of Industrial Organizations when the two often warring factions merged 11 years ago.

Meany, now 73, has been AFL-CIO president from the start and his partisans say the 60-year-old Reuther just wants Meany's job.

Withdrawal of the UAW would be the biggest loss of members for the 13.5-million member AFL-CIO since James R. Hoffa's 1.7-million member Teamsters Union was kicked out on corruption charges in 1955.

The UAW is the biggest of the 129 AFL-CIO unions. There was no sign that any other union would walk out.

Reuther made it clear he is not quitting as president of the (Continued on Page 5, Col. 1)

State Suggests Development of River, Marine Park Facility in Ulster Town

Possible development of park facilities in the Town of Ulster for recreational marine use has been suggested by the New York State Conservation Department.

In a letter read at the Thursday evening's Town Board meeting, the State Department suggested that riverfront facilities at the town park might be developed under federal and state subsidy.

Some time ago the town acquired a large tract of land on the Hudson River. Last summer considerable work was done on development of the project. Should a marine facility be developed it could be subsidized with 50 per cent of the cost coming from federal funds, 25 per cent from state funds, and 25 per cent from local sources.

Referred for Study

The matter was referred to the town park commissioner for study and recommendation. The board also authorized a study and recommendation for a master plan for park development be drawn.

A letter from W. Helmrich, plant engineering manager of IBM, to J. Kenneth Frazier and Associates was read. The communication stated they had engaged Alexander Potter Associates of New York to review the sewage survey made by the Town of Ulster.

The firm of Frazier and Associates are making a comprehensive sewage study which will be paid for by the New York State Department of Public Health.

They are now in the process of outlining a sewage district for the area which will best serve the people. When the map outlining the district is completed a public meeting will be held in the proposed district where residents of the district may voice their opinions.

Payment of $55,730.25 was authorized to the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Company for the 71 per cent of the work completed on the Town of Ulster Highway Subdistrict water tank. The sum of $8,969.54 was also authorized paid to Baker Brothers for work on the valve chamber, foundation and connection pipe lines to the tank. The sum of $2,321.27 was retained pending completion of work.

Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz reported that the $80,000 Highway Budget which had been signed would be forwarded to Acting County Highway Superintendent George Fichtner so that reimbursement could be received from the state.

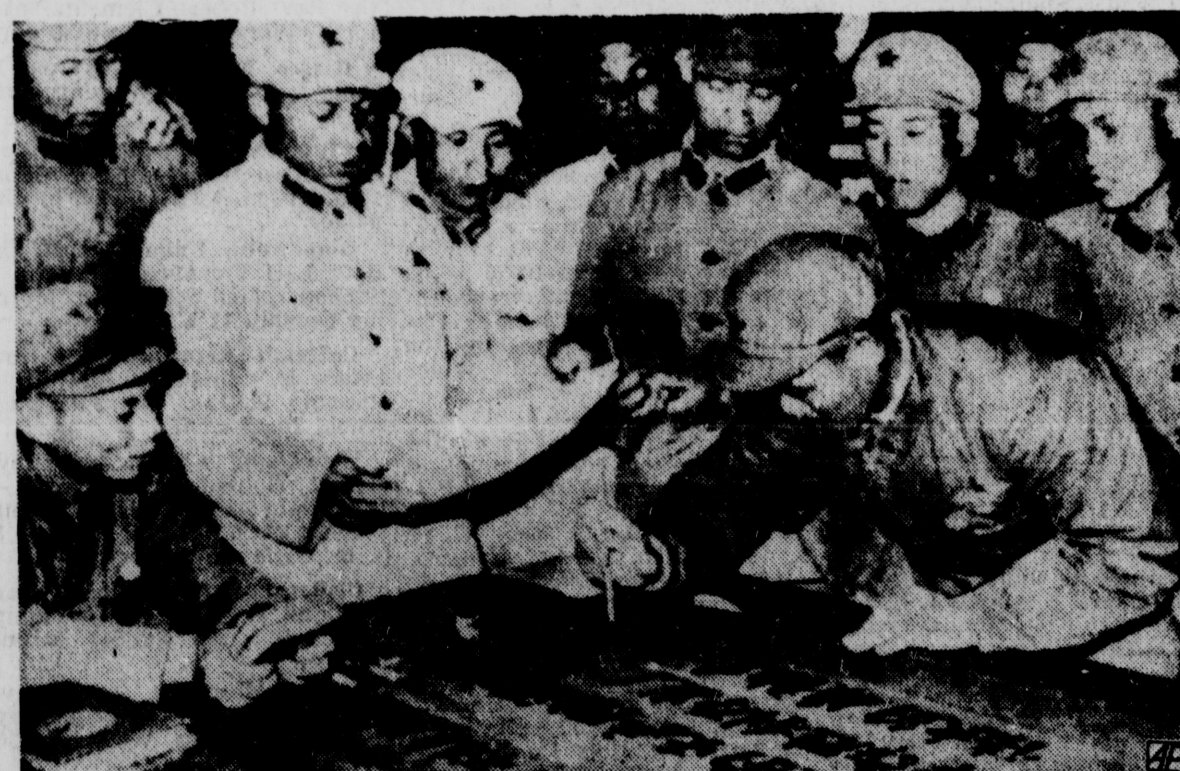

A request was made by Supervisor Musialkiewicz that he be empowered to apply to the State Division for Youth for a subsidy to continue the summer work in development of the town park program. He was authorized to seek funds to pay for the summer vacation work by students as was done last year. Last summer quite a bit of work on park development was completed by 10 students who worked under the summer youth program. It is the hope of town officials that a grant will be received to continue this work during the coming summer vacation period.

Authority was granted to have Seymour Werbalowsky, attorney, revise the dump ordinance, the trailer ordinance and to investigate drawing up a peddlers and hawkers and blasting ordinance.

A resolution was also adopted authorizing a sewer district ordinance. The law requires that a town have an ordinance governing sewage disposal. Such ordinance must be filed with the Ulster County Board of Health. Since the Town of Ulster now has a sewage disposal facility at Whittier, adoption of an ordinance must be had in order to get New York State reimbursement and maintenance of the sewer district.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Charles Wayo, enrolled recently at Boy's Town in Nebraska, came from the village of Kofi Paree in Ghana by sheer faith. One of a family of six girls and three boys, he learned about God from his mother and father. He says, "God lets things go the way he wants them to go."

His driving desire was to get an education. Without shoes, he journeyed to Accra to go to school. There was no room for him, but he stayed and worked as a janitor and slept in a tree. He learned to read English from the lessons left in the class rooms. Finding the address of an American Air Force officer, he wrote to him about his ambitions and received in return $100. Part of this he gave to his mother and with the rest he set out in January, 1964, on his long trek to an education.

It took him six months to travel from Ghana through Togo, Upper Volta, Dahomey, Chad, Nigeria, Niger and across the Sahara Desert. In the Sahara he had to eat raw birds. He was finally picked up by French soldiers and sent to Morocco. There he stowed away on a fishing trawler and found himself in Spain. He walked through Spain, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Germany and Austria, learning languages as he went. And all of this without passport. Finally a compassionate friend he met sent him to an American Embassy and with the help of others they got him to Boy's Town. He did all this because, as he says, "I have a vision that I will be something some day. I must get an education and work for my people."

Your Life and Mine

EXPLANATIONS
A small boy explained a broken window to a policeman in this way: "I was cleaning my sling shot and it went off."

So often our explanations do not explain. They only assume an ignorance on the part of others that very likely is not there. We attempt sometimes to skin out on the unwanted results of our actions that were not thought through; or perhaps were wilfully undertaken in the hope that we would not get caught.

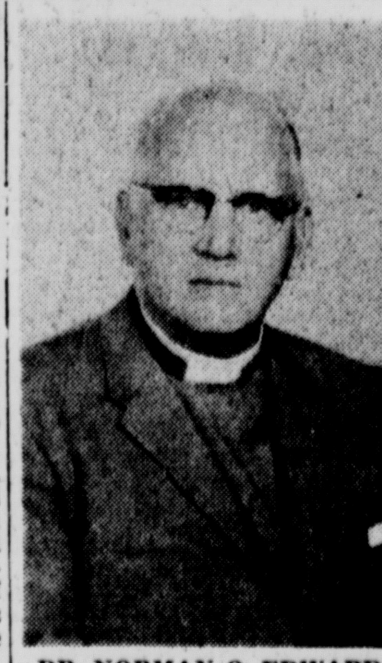

How prone we are to explain our inaction in the face of situations that should rightfully call forth our allegiance and our support by contending that I really isn't our responsibility. We don't want to get involved. And many of our attempts to justify our evasion of social responsibility fall about in the same category as the lad's explanation of the broken window. Any person with half a brain can see that the explanation that is offered does not account for the deed — or lack of deed.

Some folks try to cover their self-centeredness by contending that they just do not have the time to think about any one else to lend a hand, or a listening and sympathetic ear (which often means more than a hand) to a fellow mortal who needs encouragement or assistance. Such

DR. NORMAN O. EDWARDS

Reformed Church Members Meet, Discuss Drive

Over 100 representatives from Reformed Churches in the counties of Ulster and Dutchess, met in Fellowship Hall of the Reformed Church in Poughkeepsie, Monday night, to kick-off the denomination's $6 million capital fund drive in the Hudson Valley area.

Set to begin this year and continue over a three year span, the Development Fund will make it possible for the church to enter a progressive building program in its colleges and mission fields.

In particular, the funds will be directed to church extension work, the Southern Normal School in Brewton, Ala., the Annville Institute in Annville, Ky., the Central College in Pella, Iowa, Northwestern College in Orange City, Iowa, and Hope College, Holland, Mich., as well as the church's seminaries in New Jersey and Michigan. Various new building programs will also be made possible in the World Mission field.

The meeting Monday night was directed by Mid-Hudson Co-Chairman, the Rev. Edwin C. Coon of the Fair Street Church and Burton Whitaker from the Poughkeepsie Reformed Church. The opening program and closing benediction were offered by the Rev. William Babinsky, pastor of the New Hackensack Reformed Church, Poughkeepsie.

The Rev. Babinsky announced that even though the New Hackensack Church was locally involved in a $200,000 building program, it was agreed to enter the Church Development Fund Campaign as a pilot church, pledging $24,000. Already 31 churches, it was reported, have entered as pilot churches pledging together some 20 per cent of the final goal.

After dinner, greetings were presented by the Rev. Franklin Hinkamp, host pastor, and the Rev. Orville Hine of the Saugerties Church. The Rev. Mr. Hine is a member of the National Committee of the Development Fund. The Chairman of the Committee is Dr. Norman Vincent Peale of the Collegiate Reformed Church in New York. Carl Christianson of the New Hackensack Church and New York Synod co-chairman briefly spoke on materials and methods.

A highlight of the evening was a film produced by the denomination, entitled "Days of Decision." The Rev. John Hinkamp, Associate Secretary of the Reformed Church Stewardship Council, introduced the film and answered questions following its showing.

During February each of the churches will be approached by local group chairmen and asked to make their pledge to the fund. The film will be made available to all churches desiring to use it.

The Reverend Dr. Edwards, was born and raised in Brooklyn. He was graduated from Dakota Wesleyan University with a BA degree, and from Drew University with a BD degree. He was honored by his alma mater, Dakota University, with a Doctor of Divinity degree.

He began his ministry in 1928 in the Methodist Church of Farwell, S. D. His first appointment in the New York East Conference was to Island Park, Long Island. Since then he has served in Wallingford, Conn., Springdale and High Ridge Churches in Stamford, Conn.; New Rochelle, and Babylon, L. I. He served as a chaplain in the Navy during World War II, and continues as a chaplain in the Naval Reserve.

Dr. Edwards' interest in hospital work began when, as a student for the ministry, he set aside one day a week to call in the Methodist Hospital of Mitchell, S. D., associated with Dakota Wesleyan University. This close association with hospitals continued all through his pastorate. He was appointed to the Board of Central Islip State Hospital, one of the largest hospitals in the world, and served for eight years.

In 1956 he was appointed administrator of the Bethany Deaconess Hospital, a Methodist institution in Brooklyn.

He married Dorothy M. Youngheim in Brooklyn, in 1929. Dr. and Mrs. Edwards have two sons, Richard and Robert both of whom are married and are in the Navy. Mrs. Edwards is a past president of the Ministers' Wives Association of the New York East Conference, and was corresponding secretary of the Conference Women's Society of Christian Service for several years.

Pope to Launch Bishops' Relief Fund on Feb. 8

Francis Cardinal Spellman announces the participation of the 416 parishes of the New York Archdiocese in the 1967 nationwide fund appeal, sponsored by the Catholic Bishops of the United States, which seeks a minimum of $5,000,000 for overseas aid.

His Eminence has appointed the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Henry A. Cauley to organize the appeal in the archdiocese assisted by priest directors who will supervise activities in their respective counties.

A special radio broadcast by Pope Paul VI to Catholic school students Ash Wednesday (Feb. 8) will mark the start of the children's collection which will continue during the 40 days of Lent with prayers, study projects and classroom contribution for needy infants and children of other countries.

The adult phase of the appeal will open Feb. 26 with a pastoral from Cardinal Spellman which will be read in all churches, and conclude with an envelope collection the following Sunday.

All contributions will be used to support Catholic Relief Services, a Geneva registered and authorized by the U. S. Department of State, which carries on emergency relief, welfare and self-help projects in 80 countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Over 40 million poverty stricken, men, women and children, Msgr. Cauley points out, benefited from last year Bishops' Fund Appeal as Catholic Relief Services was able to ship overseas and distribute without regard to race, creed, or color, more than 775 thousand tons of food, clothing and medicines and other relief supplies valued at 135 million dollars.

HELP FOR DRUG ADDICTS

Father Charles J. Koerber's decision to direct all his energies to help those who have been lost through drug addiction is a broadening of his life of great usefulness in serving humanity. For some time he has been active in aiding those addicted to the use of such drugs as marijuana, heroin and LSD, but the scope of his work was limited due to his assignment as professor of Dogmatic Theology and registrar at Mount St. Alphonsus, Esopus, where he was ordained to the priesthood.

Father Koerber also has been active in the ecumenical movement in this area in an endeavor to build a bridge of understanding among people of various religions. The best wishes of his many friends among people of all faiths go with him.

Drug addiction is one of the most baffling and destructive social problems confronting modern society. According to a recent report of the Bureau of Narcotics of the U.S. Treasury Department, there are some 56,000 active recorded addicts in the United States with 92 per cent of them addicted to heroin.

Governor Rockefeller in his annual budget message requests appropriations totaling $45.9 million for operating expenses and $213.3 million for capital construction of facilities for the treatment and rehabilitation of addicts. Beginning in April, 8,400 will be treated and during the next fiscal year an additional 5,000 will be accommodated.

Drug addiction is a pressing problem for society.

We are certain that Father Koerber will be a Godsend to many in his new field of labor in New York City, where he will work for the rehabilitation of drug addicts.

CRIME DATA NETWORK

The first link has been closed in what will ultimately be a nationwide network of data about crime. The New York City police have been hooked up with the FBI's National Crime Information Center in Washington, and within a short time 14 other large city and state police jurisdictions will be added. The system can be expected to grow until police anywhere in the country will have quick access to the Center's computerized storehouse of crime information.

The system promises, so long as proper safeguards against abuses are maintained, to be a powerful new weapon in law enforcement. It is well suited to a nation marked by unusual mobility, where crimes in one area are often related to criminal activity elsewhere.

The matter of safeguards should not be neglected, however. For though FBI spokesmen insist that there is no plan to stuff the Information Center with dossiers on law-abiding citizens, the "Big Brother" possibilities are not hard to imagine.

The Justice Department is to be commended for initiating this project, which carries on the traditions of applying the most up-to-date tools and techniques in law enforcement. Some curbs on the kind of information to be stored and given out may be advisable, however. It is a question of sufficient importance to warrant a congressional study.

INTERIOR'S BARGAIN

There is reason to suspect that the Department of the Interior has need of a few topnotch salesmen—perhaps some of those fellows who have been cutting such a wide swathe with arms sales abroad. What Interior has to sell, for only seven dollars, is a pass that gives the bearer and all in his car entry to all the nation's federal recreation areas for an entire year.

The first year's sales of these passes were a great disappointment; they brought in well under six million dollars instead of the 35 to 60 million predicted. Considering the millions of Americans who visit the parks and other recreation areas in the course of the year, many of them repeatedly, at least the lower estimate should be easily reached.

The scenery and other advantages are unparalleled. At a cost of less than many Americans pay monthly for cigarettes, the annual Golden Eagle Passport—with the pass good, be it noted, for any number of visits—rates as a topnotch bargain.

WASHINGTON (NEA) President Johnson still hopes to avoid another and more costly arms race with Russia through some form of an American-Soviet agreement to ban the development of antiballistic missiles.

But the time is not on the side of the United States. And can the Kremlin leaders be trusted? There is substantial evidence that they are going ahead with ABM development of major scope even as they negotiate a moratorium with the State Department.

It is a perilous illusion to assume that the supersecretive Russians are ever going to shed much light on any aspect of their nuclear capacity. It is not in their nature or interest.

Yet the United States is not completely in the dark. For the American intelligence community the danger signals are clear.

Enough valuable information can also be gleaned from Soviet utterances which, though vague or veiled, convince even optimists in the State Department that the Russians are not seriously considering Johnson's effort to halt the ABM arms race.

Last February, Gen. Batitsky, currently chief of Soviet air defense forces, warned that Russia has everything necessary for successfully combating enemy missiles at distant approaches to protected objectives.

His warning seems to have followed a very precise guidance from the Soviet Ministry of Defense. It was repeated exactly by Defense Minister Malinovsky in an article he wrote for Nordna Armija, official military newspaper of Communist Yugoslavia.

In fact, Marshal Malinovsky made a similar statement at the 23rd congress of the Russian Communist party where he claimed that "Soviet air defense will reliably insure the destruction of any aircraft and many rockets of the enemy."

Traditionally, some element of bluff is always present in all of the Kremlin's boasts about Russia's military might. But most Soviet claims are definitely worded to portray an operational ABM capability.

Thus Neues Deutschland, official mouthpiece of Communist East Germany, recently asserted: "The air defense of the Soviet Union has been armed with new weapons. Its overall system of air, rocket and cosmic defense, which consists not only of fully battle-ready antimissile missiles, is unique in the world."

Surely this is a type of information—even if only partly true—that the Johnson Administration can ignore only at the risk of American security. In his State of the Union Message, the President finally acknowledged that Russia had begun deploying a "limited" antimissile system around Moscow. He suggested that the United States and Russia have a duty "to slow down the arms race" which would "impose on our peoples, and on all mankind, an additional waste of resources with no gain in security to either side."

These were noble words. But few specialists on Russia believe that Moscow is seriously interested in an agreement not to deploy missile defense systems.

The alternative, alas, is another arms race. It will run into billions of dollars.

Thus far, because of concern over the staggering cost and even doubt over effectiveness, the Johnson Administration has held back on the development of the Nike X missile defense system, now in advanced stage of development.

But with evidence accumulating that Russia is already deploying antiballistic missiles not only around Moscow but also around Leningrad and other strategic areas, the United States cannot afford illusions about an "effective agreement" with Moscow.

First Visit to Dentist
Child's Most Important

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.
Newsday Enterprise Assn.

Jacob is a handsome fellow, 3½ years old. This was a special day for him. It was his first visit to the dentist. His teeth were cleaned, polished, examined and painted with a solution of tin fluoride.

Did he make a fuss? On the contrary, it was a pleasant adventure for him. Jacob is a sensitive and intelligent little boy, yet he wasn't scared. He obviously enjoyed his "treatment." He even regaled the dental hygienist with stories of his trip to Washington to see his grandpop.

Everything went smoothly because, even though it was a special day for Jacob, he was not treated in a "special" way. No one fussed over him; there was no big "Hello, Jacob. How are you today?" and "Would you like a ride in the chair?" and "See all the nice tools the dentist has."

This overpatronizing, over-solicitous approach was not used. Many dentists think this sort of thing scares the heck out of kids and makes them suspicious of what this big guy in the white coat is going to do to them.

The straightforward, truthful, low-gear approach in dental offices seems to work best for most children, and for most adults, too.

Preparing children in advance by telling them all about the dentist, what a nice man he is, what marvelous equipment he has, and "he doesn't even hurt," are usually calculated to make young patients suspect that maybe the dentist isn't so nice. (Who knows? There may even be some dentists who aren't nice.) It also suggests that this marvelous, but frightening, equipment will be used on them.

Of course, there is no perfect approach to dentistry, and there are children on whom no approach seems to work. These are children who have built in anxieties about every new adventure, dentistry being near the top of the list. Genetics and family life must have an important role. Special problems must be treated in special ways.

Start your child's regular visits to the dentist at an early age. Examination of his teeth and mouth may disclose defects that can be treated before they become complicated.

Also, the type of treatment that Jacob got—cleaning and polishing with fluoride buffing paste, painting teeth with tin fluoride—can reduce incidence of tooth decay by as much as 50 per cent.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

A strong dissent is being entered to the newly circulated proposition that new Negro leadership must come from men who find their way into high executive posts in industry and the professions.

Richard Clarke, a New York Negro who heads a firm devoted to recruiting and placing Negroes in jobs in business and other pursuits, believes that even the highest-placed recruits are destined to be swallowed up and become virtually invisible in the white establishment.

He suggests, indeed, that the net effect of some industrial placement of Negroes in responsible posts as personnel supervisors and the like is to create a "new breed of Super-Toms" who may impede rather than speed up the process of hiring more Negroes.

Clarke's argument is that Negroes in personnel work are so fearful of damaging the Negro image that they reject countless applicants for minor flaws which a white personnel officer probably overlook.

His larger contention however, is that Negroes who do gain acceptance in white-dominated companies, foundations and other organizations can have little hope of making effective impact as leaders in the Negro community at large. He adds:

"Leadership for most Negroes still will have to come from the street, hammered out through the 'foundry process.'"

Spokesmen for another, newer firm engaged in Negro recruiting for managerial posts disagree that desperately sought general leadership cannot emerge ultimately from among men so placed in the white establishment.

Urie Haynes Jr., president of Management Resources Corp., another "head-hunting" company, is hopeful that in the years to come a good number of Negroes will attain positions of power and influence in business, professional and civic affairs—and that in these places they can give important directions to the Negro cause.

But Haynes says that right now the Negro job recruiters are focusing on those sectors where more qualified Negroes can be found—in what he terms "middle managerial levels."

This means engineers, accountants, data-process specialists and similar middle-range jobs, posts, as these become more heavily sprinkled in the American corporate and civic structure, the argument is that the superior talents of some will lift them to levels of major operating authority.

From such leaders, it is argued by one interested Negro, may come a "better-balanced" judgment and a less emotional approach than is provided today by responsible but "old-style" leaders who are basically crusaders giving much of their energy to recurring crises.

Men in high civil rights circles here naturally differ widely on the thorny issue of where more vibrant Negro leadership is to come from. One stout advocate of the notion that Negroes rising in industry can provide it thinks that the private recruiters are not bold enough.

He insists men fit for the very top jobs are available now, and would deny the validity of the Clarke thesis—that to join a white managerial staff is to melt away into the background and be lost as a potential leader of rank and file Negroes.

And so the argument is joined. If the present state of Negro leadership, which is widely viewed in the movement itself as stale and unproductive, it is at least healthy that debate is shaping up over new sources of authority and direction.

Label Johnson's Press Talk Just Echo of 1966

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, using a news conference to make a major appeal for peace in Vietnam, admitted frustrations nine times but the irony in what he said is that he said it all before.

This time he simply pulled a bunch of the pieces together, taping all the way back into 1965, and presented them in one big bundle to a listening world with the obvious intent of showing his earnest desire for a settlement.

Clear Answer to Critics

He was clearly answering the critics of American foreign policy and probably had no effect on them since nothing he has said along the same lines before.

Nine times, in one form or another, Johnson said, "In all candor, I must say that I am not aware of any serious effort that the other side has made, in my judgment, to bring the fighting to a stop and to stop the war."

After his Honolulu conference last February with South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, Johnson and Ky in their communique said they "noted with regret the total absence of a present interest in peace" by North Vietnam.

Thus, through repetition, Johnson attempted to show the consistency of the American position in wishing peace while being ignored by the Communists.

Nothing Off Cuff

There was nothing off-the-cuff about Johnson's performance. Vietnam had been high in the news for days, with speculation that the North Vietnamese were beginning to throw out hints they wanted to discuss an end to the fighting.

The President came prepared against any slip of the tongue.

More of the Same

As long ago as April 7, 1965 at Johns Hopkins University Johnson had said "We remain ready for unconditional discussions." Thursday he said the same thing.

Johnson even repeated, with a slight variation, the picture of his troubled self lying awake at night thinking about the war.

At Johns Hopkins he said, "Every night before I turn out the lights to sleep I ask myself this question: Have I done everything I can to unite this country? Have I done everything I can to help unite the world, to try to bring peace and hope to all the people of the world? Have I done enough?"

Thursday he put it this way, "I go to bed every night feeling that I failed that day because I could not end the conflict in Vietnam. I do have disappointments and moments of distress. I think every president has had. I am just complaining."

Johnson drew a broad picture of the various ways in which he thought peace talks could be started, beginning with discussions and going on to negotiations.

He had said this in different form in 1966, just as most of what else he said Thursday was a rerun or an echo of what he said last year.

Business Week in Review

represent the over-all pattern of 1966 earnings. Many companies, large and small, reported record profits despite higher costs of materials and labor.

The value of construction contracts awarded in December totaled $3,189,285,000, down 14 per cent from $3,698,208,000, a year earlier. Contract value for all 1966 increased 2 per cent to $50,150,085,000 from $49,272,170,000, the slimmest gain since 1961.

Orders for new machine tools in December totaled $128,122,000, up 0.25 per cent from $127,765,000 in November but off 18 per cent from $156.1 million in December 1965.

A combination of snow-caused work stoppages and planned production cuts sliced automobile production for the week to an estimated 133,700 passenger cars, off 12 per cent from 151,890 the previous week, when snowstorms also trimmed production. A year ago output totaled 172,049.

Production in January amounted to 669,915 cars, compared with 816,198 a year earlier. Carmakers scheduled output of about 640,000 cars in February against 766,609 a year ago.

Steel production, hampered by snowstorms in the Chicago district, during the week dropped 2.9 per cent to 2,373,000 tons from 2,443,000 the previous week.

Rifton Couple Reminisce as AFSC Plans Viet Program

Van Cleve Geiger and Diana Griffiths, now husband and wife, will have a kind of personal interest in the latest program of the American Friends Service Committee—to begin a program of therapy and rehabilitation in South Vietnam which is planned to spread later into North Vietnam.

The couple, Rifton residents were both active in a similar program for refugees and war victims in Poland during World War II—part of continuing service to such people that resulted in a Nobel Peace Prize for the AFSC in 1947. In Vietnam, starting in the Quang Ngai Provincial Hospital, the AFSC will give care including nursing, physical therapy, occupational therapy and medical-social work. A team numbering some 10 volunteers will launch the program within the next few months.

Speaking on the project, Davis Elder, director of the Overseas Refugee and Resettlement Program for the AFSC—himself recently returned from the war-

He noted that before expanding to the northern half of the divided nation, the South Vietnamese program will be greatly expanded and native personnel will be trained to aid in the work.

AFL-CIO headquarters here maintained official silence, but it was learned that Meany made no attempt to dissuade Reuther from resigning and immediately made plans to replace him on the federation's 29-man Executive Council when it meets in Miami Beach later this month.

Reuther's assault on Meany began last June after the AFL-CIO's delegate walked out of the International Labor Organization, a United Nations agency, in Geneva because it elected a Communist president.

This, said Reuther, hurt President Johnson's efforts to ease cold war tensions.

Has Kept Quiet

Meany since then has kept quiet while Reuther steadily escalated his criticism, charging that "the AFL-CIO lacks the social vision, the dynamic thrust, the crusading spirit that should characterize the progressive, modern labor movement."

When the UAW fell nearly three months behind in its dues to the AFL-CIO—which total more than $1 million a year—Meany still said nothing.

Although UAW paid some of the back dues before facing possible suspension, Meany left it known he wouldn't kick Reuther's union out anyway.

The Reuther resignation again brought silence from Meany, but observers said it looks this time as if Meany and Reuther have had it.

$500,000 Gulf Fire, List Five Workers Missing

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—Five workers were missing after a spectacular fire swept a drilling platform in the Gulf of Mexico about 35 miles southeast of Cameron, La., Friday night.

Boats waited for daylight to make a search of surrounding waters. Intense heat kept salvage crews off the platform during the night.

One of the 10 workers on the platform who escaped, R.E. Campbell of Allevion, Tex., said, "We heard a spewing sound and then an explosion. Everything on the platform was on fire and the diesel fuel was running down onto the deck below and it was on fire."

The platform and its drilling rig are each valued at about $500,000.

Four gas wells had been previously completed from the platform for the CATCO group, a joint venture of Continental, Atlantic-Richfield, Tidewater and Cities Service companies.

The wells had been shut down but one was being reworked by employees of Crown Drilling Co., a New Orleans firm. Also on the rig were employees of other oil field service firms.

The 100-by-70 foot platform stands about 70 feet above the water.

Mao's hold appeared shaky in China's largest city, Shanghai, and in Taiyuan, capital of Shanxi Province in the north.

Radio Peking quoted the Wen Hui Pao, a Maoist newspaper in Shanghai, as saying the city's municipal party committee has not been struck down thoroughly yet. "The newspaper referred to a 'reactionary reverse current' in Shanghai and said Maoists could lose what power they had gained unless new plots were defeated."

"We must further unite in the struggle to seize completely the power in the party, government and finances of Shanghai district," the paper said.

It said Mao's followers must distinguish between bourgeois leaders, who should be removed, and proletarian leaders, who should be trusted. Rebellion against all authorities, it said, is a mistake.

In Taiyuan, a pro-Mao newspaper said the Maoist group met resistance and some members defected, while others schemed to form another organization.

4 Yanks Released

By East Germans Tired, Jubilant

BERLIN (AP)—Four tired but jubilant Americans shouted "Freiheit!"—freedom!—as they crossed into West Berlin Friday night after being released from prison in Communist East Germany.

They were Mary Helen Battle, 26, Oak Ridge, Tenn.; William W. Lovett, 26, San Francisco, Calif.; Moses Reese Herrin, 26, Akron, Ohio; and Frederick Matthews, 24, Ellwood City, Pa.

In Jail for Year
All had been imprisoned more than a year, but were released before their sentences were over. Lovett had been charged in connection with a traffic accident in Leipzig and the other three with attempting to aid East Germans escape to the West.

Officials in Washington said they knew of secret talks prior to the Americans' release, but that "no swap arrangement" was involved in this case.

Miss Battle, arrested in November 1965 and sentenced last April to four years, appeared tired, but in good health. At times she spoke in German, saying, "I can't think anymore in English."

Decent Treatment
She said she was treated "like any other German prisoner" and had to perform manual labor and housework. Only two days ago she was informed when she would be released and said, "You can't believe my anticipation."

The tall, willowy ash blonde was a theology student at West Berlin's Free University when she was arrested for trying to help a young East German man to escape to West Berlin.

"I felt I was trapped into being arrested," she told newsmen. She said she did not know until her arrest that the man she was trying to help was a deserter from the East German army.

Matthews and Herrin were arrested in September 1965, and each received eight-year sentences in a one-day trial just before Christmas of that year. They were arrested as they tried to bring a 13-year-old girl to her parents in West Berlin. The girl was discovered by border guards in a special compartment in their car.

The two ex-GIs said they had "successfully" brought out five "refugees" before being caught. Herrin said he and Matthews were "treated very good because we are Negroes. The Communists told us we were being mistreated back in the states. They tried to make the most of it."

Lovett was arrested in May 1965 on charges stemming from a traffic incident in which several East Germans were injured. He had served about 21 months of his 27-month sentence. When asked what his plans were, he said, "Please, we are excited, tired and confused."

The platform and its drilling rig are each valued at about $500,000.

Four gas wells had been previously completed from the platform for the CATCO group, a joint venture of Continental, Atlantic-Richfield, Tidewater and Cities Service companies.

The wells had been shut down but one was being reworked by employees of Crown Drilling Co., a New Orleans firm. Also on the rig were employees of other oil field service firms.

The 100-by-70 foot platform stands about 70 feet above the water.

brought to the attention of the board members need for a timing device on the traffic lights on Boice's Lane at the IBM parking lot entrance to provide for better traffic regulation.

Presently there is no means for halting traffic emerging from the parking lot so that traffic on Morton Boulevard may move. The device would be used at rush peak to interrupt the flow of traffic so that Morton Boulevard and Boice's Lane traffic might be better regulated. Authority was given to investigate such a device, as well as cost, from the Marbleite Company, Inc. of Brooklyn.

Difficulties at the last election when voting machines were used, when voters attempted to write in names, was also brought to the attention of board members by Supervisor Musialkiewicz.

It was suggested that the machines be cleaned to prevent clogging at future elections. Authority was granted to have the custodian look over and clean machines in all of the voting districts of the town before next fall's general election.

A report was received from Building Inspector Joseph Alberding on administering the new Building Code which became effective the first of the year. He reported three applications. One application had been received and granted and the work started on a two-car garage. The fee was received and turned over to the town clerk. One violation reported had been corrected.

A letter was received from Acting County Superintendent of Highways Fichtner regarding a resolution of the Town Board which sought to have a 35-mile-an-hour speed zone extended on Lucas Avenue Extension. The Town of Hurley Town Board also joined in the request which has been referred to the State Traffic and Control Commission.

The matter of town employees retirement benefits as well as disability also came before the board.

Paltz Native Retires After Very Musical Army Career

Master Sergeant and master musician Donald E. DePuy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. DePuy, 25 John Street, New Paltz, retired from the U. S. Army on Jan. 31 after 28 years of service.

As a member of the U.S. Military Academy Band, stationed at West Point he took part in the inauguration parades of Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy and has appeared with film star Janet Blair, pianist Roger Williams, and a wide range of others on radio, television and on commercial recordings.

Played at World's Fair
The ex-sergeant also has marched in the Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, Calif.; played at Carnegie Hall, Rockefeller Center and the New York World's Fair and in concerts or parades in almost every major U.S. city.

Continuing his musical career after retirement, DePuy will follow an already-established piano tuning business. He resides at 22 Howard Street, "Irthchild, Orange County. He is married to the former Catherine Balfe of Rifton. They have four children. DePuy's musical interest began as a third grader at the New Paltz Campus School, where he studied music under the direction of Mrs. Albert C. Arras and the late Professor Howard B. Hoffman, then musical director at the college. At one time in junior high school, he was a regular member of three bands including his school's band, the high school's band and the college band. He played the tuba.

Became Repairman
After service with the Army in World War II, DePuy studied musical instrument repair at the Conn Institute in Elkhart, Ind. Later he worked at this at West Point and when his playing talents were uncovered in 1949, he was put in uniform and made a member of the USMA Band.

DePuy, always the musician, later formed his own dance band—which soon came to be the "in" group at functions in and around both the academy and nearby Stewart Field, Newburgh.

Resnick Blasts GOP

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick is expected to aim several well-sharpened shafts at the Republican opposition in a speech he will make tonight at the annual dinner dance of the Austerlitz-Chatham-Ghent Democratic Club at Kozel's Restaurant, Columbia County. A preview of the speech shows clearly that the message is intended to be heard loud and strong throughout the 28th Congressional District.

Among other things, Resnick will hail President Johnson's decision to "move ahead with the new ideas and programs we need to solve the urgent problems of the growing nation." He'll praise the "legislative output and great record of the last and 89th Congress as providing a fine launching pad for the vital new programs of the 90th Congress," unless, he says, "they are torpedoed by the Republican party."

Both the friend and the dog returned but could give no clue as to what happened to Johnny.

Mrs. Cilley reported the youngster missing at 12:30 p. m. told searchers he was slightly deaf and wearing a black jacket, black pants and boots at the time of his disappearance.

A large force of searchers, including state troopers from every precinct in the entire area, men from the county sheriff's office, volunteer firemen and others descended on the area almost immediately. At 5 p. m., as dark was beginning to fall, three volunteer searchers, Ronald Finch, of 51 Murphy Street, Kingston, John Noonan, of 77 Pearl Street, this city, and Louis Bush of Bearsville, found the child only one and one-half miles from the Cilley home and across from Oehler's Mountain Lodge. He was standing about 60 yards up a hill and less than a mile from the roaring falls.

County Investigator Harold Bowers, who was in large part responsible for the manning of the search, said little Johnny was apparently in good condition when found; complained only of being cold and hungry.

renovate the TB Hospital as an accepted hospital, Dr. Link pointed out.

The new 250-bed institution would be primarily for custodial care of welfare patients, but a portion of it could be staffed and used for a rehabilitation hospital to help patients to resume their former activities rather than to remain forever under custodial care. This institution could also serve as a less expensive site for temporary care of patients who have recently required the specialized treatment available at a general hospital, but now need less extensive and less expensive care for their complete recuperation, yet who deserve somewhat better care than is available in the average nursing home.

Would Take 3 Years
Dr. Link pointed out that even if a decision is made to erect a new 250 or more bed institution, it would be three years at least before it could be put to use and in the meantime the county could save some $1,250,000 toward its share of the cost by transferring TB patients to a state TB hospital, and by securing permission from the state to operate the TB Hospital for three years as an extended care facility without the expensive alterations which otherwise would be required, and utilizing the hospital in this three-year period to house some of the welfare patients now being maintained in general hospitals and nursing homes at county expense.

Operation of a new 250-bed institution, Dr. Link stated would cost not much more than the $875,515 appropriation to run the TB Hospital and the two county infirmaries.

In conclusion Dr. Link stated that ultimately the present TB Hospital might be used as a boarding home facility, which the county needs.

Sale of the land on which the present Kingston and New Paltz infirmaries now stand could represent quite a sizable return to the county.

Following the report by Dr. Link and the talk by Viola the suggestions were discussed at length by members of the Welfare and Public Health Committees.

Dr. Virgil B. DeWitt, president of the Ulster County Health Board, served as moderator for the meeting.

Say Apollo . . .

internal power was being supplied by batteries.

No Evidence
"There is no evidence up to this time that the source of power . . . was related to the accident," Seamans said.

"The preliminary analysis points to the conclusion that a clear identification of the source of ignition or of its possible source will depend upon detailed step by step examination of the entire spacecraft and its related test equipment," he added.

Sources at Cape Kennedy said NASA is considering changing the pure oxygen environment of the Apollo cabin to an air-like mixture of nitrogen and oxygen to reduce the fire hazard.

The oxygen-nitrogen breathing system would be used only during ground testing and during the launch phase. Once in orbit the cabin would be pressurized with pure oxygen. In orbit, the cabin could be decompressed rapidly, snuffing out any fire in the vacuum of space—something that cannot be done on the ground.

Should such a major redesign of the spacecraft be ordered, the delay in the nation's moon landing program could stretch far beyond the apparent initial delay of at least six months caused by the accident.

Elementary Bus

Schedule Still Late at Onteora

Watson Goodrich, assistant superintendent at Onteora School, announced Friday that buses for elementary students will be operating Monday according to the same schedule used last week.

He said that due to the school's busing problems—hopeful to be corrected by Tuesday—elementary students will be picked up one-hour later than customary, at 9:45 a. m., and will be returning home one-hour earlier, at 2:15 p. m.

Morning kindergarten students will begin classes at 9:45 a. m., he said, with the session ending at 11:50 a. m. The afternoon class will begin at 12:10 p. m. and end at 2:50 p. m.

Goodrich said the regular busing schedule will be in force for senior high school students at Onteora.

Chinese Claim

Soviets Attack

Moscow Embassy

MOSCOW (AP)—The Red Chinese Embassy charged today that 31 members of its staff, including 3 women, were beaten Friday night in a Soviet raid on the embassy by "170 goons and youths."

The Chinese called the alleged raid "a barbaric, fascist act."

They said Charge d'Affaires Chih-vuan, the acting ambassador, was among the injured.

The Chinese asserted the Soviets tore down showcases on embassy property, outside the building.

A painting window contained pictures and Chinese charges that Soviet police seriously beat a group of Chinese students in Red Square Jan. 25.

The Soviets said the Chinese students provoked the Red Square incident and faked injuries.

Soviet authorities ordered the controversial display removed Friday. The Chinese refused.

Tass news agency reported Friday night that indignant Soviet citizens "took away the slanderous materials" at the Chinese embassy. It denied Chinese diplomats were beaten.

The Soviets described the Chinese version as "nothing but slander and provocation from beginning to end."

phone hasn't stopped ringing since it happened."

Bound With Tape
State police furnished a few more pertinent details. They verified the report that three men, described as "dark-complected or swarthy, well-dressed, all in their late twenties or early thirties and driving a maroon car, barged into the Fister residence during the noon hour at gunpoint." Troopers said the men bound the elderly couple with tape and ordered them to lie face down on the bed. After reportedly yanking the telephone from its wires, they apparently ransacked the neat, well-kept residence in search of the one thing for which they had come and on which they obviously had previous information. This was a stamp collection, consisting of 96 albums and valued at $10,000. Police said they estimated that more than a dozen trips were necessary to remove the albums from the house to the car.

With the robbery accomplished, the men fled and subsequent roadblocks thrown up throughout the area failed to apprehend them. Neighbors seen the car in the Fister driveway but assumed only that friends were visiting and the make and license number still remain unknown to authorities.

The robbers had left one of Fisters hands untaped so that he could reach the medicine he takes regularly for a heart condition. After they left, he managed to release his wife with the free hand. She hurried across the road to a neighbor's home to sound the alarm at 1:30 p. m. but, by then, police theorized the car and the men were miles from the scene of the crime.

Attire Described
One man was reportedly wearing a beige and green sweater and the other two were dressed in black. All three were reportedly taller than the third.

The robbery bore a frightening similarity to another, still unsolved, which occurred in Woodstock last October 14. At that time, another elderly couple, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Berry, of Easton Lane (some two miles from Friday's crime but also in a quiet, isolated residential section) were the victims of an armed robbery at their home shortly after dusk. They, too, were bound (with electrical appliance cord) and forced to lie down on their beds as three men looted the house. Accosted as they returned home from dining out, they were pushed inside and subdued as robbers made off with $750 in cash from Mrs. Berry's sockbook and two diamond rings. These men, too, were described as white males about 30 years of age and one was said to be extremely tall.

Following the report by Dr. Link and the talk by Viola the suggestions were discussed at length by members of the Welfare and Public Health Committees.

Dr. Virgil B. DeWitt, president of the Ulster County Health Board, served as moderator for the meeting.

A spokesman refused to say how the Pentagon learned the three men were alive. He said they went down in two planes apparently hit by North Vietnamese anti-aircraft fire and were listed as dead on a basis of fellow pilots' reports. He did not say which two were together.

The three were listed Friday as Lt. i.g. Porter A. Halbyrd, Decatur, Ga.; Lt. Cmdr. Robert B. Doremus, Wilmington, Del.; and Cmdr. Fred A.W. Franke Jr., San Diego, Calif.

The Origin of Valentine's Day

The origin of Valentine's Day is lost in antiquity. Historians have discovered no fewer than eight saints named Valentine, and two of them were martyred on the same day—February 14, 269 A.D.

A widely accepted account of the origin of the most romantic of holidays dates back to the third century. The story begins with a cruel Roman emperor and a humble Christian martyr. The emperor was Claudius II and the Christian was a young priest named Valentinus.

Claudius had ordered all Romans to worship 12 gods. It was a crime to associate with Christians and, if caught, the sentence was death. Valentinus, however, refused to renounce his beliefs and in due time was arrested and imprisoned. He spent more than a year in a dungeon with only the bare necessities of life but during this time he taught arithmetic and the history of Rome to Julia, the blind young daughter of a jailer.

Valentinus used his eyes for Julia. He described the world to her and told her about God. The blind girl "saw" through his eyes, trusted in his wisdom, and found comfort in his quiet strength.

After a year, Valentinus was suddenly summoned to appear before Claudius II. Legend has it that the emperor was so impressed by the young priest's dignity that he attempted to convert him to the Roman gods thus "saving" him from execution.

Valentinus refused to renounce Christianity and, instead, attempted to convert the emperor to Christianity. Claudius, infuriated, ordered the priest to be beaten with clubs, stoned and beheaded.

According to the legend, found in the Hallmark Historical Collection, Valentinus through his faith restored the sight of his jailer's young daughter. Both Julia and her father converted to Christianity but were later executed by Claudius along with hundreds of other Christians.

On the eve of his execution, we are told, Valentinus wrote a farewell message to Julia, urging her to stay close to God, and signed it "From Your Valentine." His sentence was carried out the next day, February 14, 270 A.D., outside the Flaminian Gate in Rome which was later renamed Porta Valentini in his memory. Valentinus is reported to be buried at what is now the Church of Praxedes in Rome.

It is said that Julia planted a pink-blossomed almond tree near his grave. Today, the almond tree remains a symbol of abiding affection and friendship and each February 14, St. Valentine's Day, messages of affection, love and devotion are exchanged around the world.

About a century ago, however, the messages weren't too loving. Some of the most insulting valentines were popular between 1875 and the early 1900s. They cost a penny apiece and were known as "penny dreadfuls." Needless to say they were rarely signed but they made their point.

A typical specimen shows a gruesome woman with a huge barbed tongue. "To backbite your neighbors seems your greatest delight; You always are ready at noon, noon, and night; To sting with your tongue their fair reputation; And ring in our ears some false defamation."

Valentine barbs today have lost their sting but there's one you may come across. It says:

"Sweet one, you've crept into my mind; you've crept into my heart; you've crept into my soul . . ."

Inside the card: "You big creep!"

Chando Paces 11th Triumph With 24 Points

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

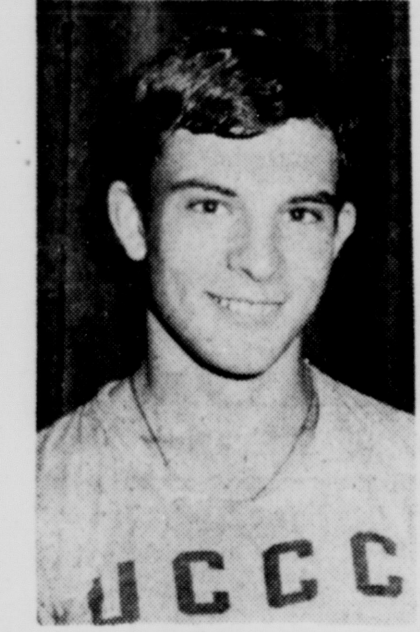

The official school program lists him as only 5-7 but Rod Chando was much taller than that last night as he led Ulster Community College to a 92-50 win over Concordia before a sparse crowd at the Municipal Auditorium.

Chando, who led Marlboro Central to the UCLC championship just about a year ago, ignited the fuse as coach Mike Perry's Senators cruised to their 11th win in 17 starts.

The diminutive backcourt ace netted 24 points and set up several key baskets with his pinpoint passing. On defense, he was all over the floor and on more than one occasion forced the visitors to give away the basketball without getting off a shot.

Warming up for their Mid-Hudson Conference clash next Wednesday at Orange, the high scoring Senators were challenged just briefly as they won their fourth game in the last five starts.

The visitors from Bronxville

went in front, 5-2, in the early stages and were trailing by only 10 points, 26-16, halfway through the initial period.

Then Mr. Chando took over. He made seven of the next 16 points scored by the Senators. In between, he led off for two buckets and directed the UCC fast break, which tore into the Concordia defense and broke the game wide open.

With 3:10 of the half left, Chando made a long jump shot and then fed Brad Meyer underneath to widen the gap to 18 points, 42-24.

The losers, who couldn't operate against the tough pressing defense of the Senators, didn't make a bid in the final 20 minutes. Perry emptied the bench in the latter stages and Adrian Anderson and Don Gregory, brought up from the junior varsity, scored their initial buckets.

With Ulster in front, 92-48, Concordia froze the ball in the final 1:30, stopping the Senators from hitting 100 points for the Sixth time this season.

Aiding Chando in the triumph were Frank Roselli (18), Meyer (11) and Bill Zilliox (10).

KHS Cagers Slated At Lourdes Tonight

Riding the crest of a five-game winning streak, Kingston High Cagers move into the cramped Lourdes gym tonight to meet the high flying Warriors. The jayvee game begins at 6:30.

Coach John Gilligan's team is 9-2 for the season. One of the victories was a 91-70 romp over Lourdes in the opening game.

The Warriors are fresh from their upset win last night over Roosevelt. They lost to Beacon by only three points at home.

Lourdes has an 8-4 record.

In the jayvee tussle, coach Mike Rienzo's team will be trying to reverse its only setback of the season.

Cornell Raps Yale, 80-73; Siena Sets Scoring Record

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hank South and Walt Esdaile, with 23 and 21 points respectively, led Cornell to an 80-73 victory over Yale Friday night at Ithaca, the Big Red's fifth win in Ivy League competition.

Cornell led most of the way, except for several brief lead exchanges early in the first half. The home team went ahead to stay with 4:40 of the half remaining on a goal by Blaine Aston.

Yale fought back from a 14-point halftime deficit, but could draw no closer than five points.

Yale was led in scoring by Rick Johnson, with 23 points.

In other games involving Upstate men:

Plattsburgh State, paced by Clarence Miller's 26 points, defeated Fredonia State 97-58 at Plattsburgh.

Ted Eppenstein scored 36 points to boost Stony Brook to an easy, 92-84, victory over Onondaga State at Onondaga.

St. Lawrence, aided by Ralph Stevens' 31 points, defeated Hamilton, 94-87, at Canton.

Siena, led by Mark Palinski's 29 points, broke a scoring record it had set earlier this season, by defeating Cortland State, 110-89, at Albany. Siena's previous mark was 105, set against Utica.

Jim Robinson scored a goal with 10 seconds remaining in the game and teammate Keith Thompson sank a free throw to give Rochester Tech a 78-76 victory over Wayne State (Mich.) at Rochester.

Hobart, featuring a well-balanced offense, defeated Utica, 104-88, at Geneva. The victory broke an eight-game losing streak for Hobart.

Clay, Terrell Stage Final Gym Sessions Before Fight

BY MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay and Ernie Terrell today stage what may be their last gym sessions before their heavyweight title showdown fight Monday night in the Astro-dome.

Angelo Dundee, Clay's trainer, said the consensus camp would spar two rounds and Sam Solomon, trainer of the World Boxing Association champ, said Terrell planned no boxing in today's session.

In Friday's workout, Clay took an awkward tumble through the ropes, but bounced back unhurt for a talking bout with an old foe, George Chuvalo, the Canadian he defeated last March in a 15-round decision.

Jimmy Ellis had Clay at the edge of the ring when the slack top rope sent Clay sprawling backwards, Ellis atop him.

The practice ring is elevated about four feet above a concrete floor. Ellis and bystanders kept Clay from falling off the canvas backwards.

Cassius Sounds Off

After the sparring, Clay shouted to Chuvalo, "I want you bad. When I retire, I don't want it said that anybody stood up to me for 15 rounds."

Chuvalo told him, "Don't worry about me. You'd better worry about Monday night. You'd better take care of Terrell first."

Frigid Arctic Blast Smothers Northeast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Biting cold in the Northeast and mild temperatures in the Northwest highlighted the nation's weather picture today.

The frigid arctic air settled in the Northeast in the wake of the recent snow storm. Morning temperatures were below zero across most of central and northern New England with prospects likely that readings would plunge to more than -20 in parts of northern New England during the night.

In the Midwest, brisk southerly winds under a cover of clouds brought much warmer weather to the upper Great Lakes. Pellston, Mich., reported -14 early Friday morning. At the same time this morning the reading was 26 degrees above zero.

It was cool in the Southeast, except for warm weather in southern and central Florida. Morning temperatures ranged from 17 below zero in Old Town, Maine, to 70 degrees in Key West, Fla.

2 Chute to Safety

LAKE PLACID, Fla. (AP)—Two Air Force pilots, one of them from Schenectady, N.Y., parachuted to safety Friday when their twin-engine F4C Phantom jet fighter-bomber crashed 12 miles east of here.

The officers were identified as Capt. Henry G. Brodsky of Schenectady, and Capt. Ronald L. Clamme. The two are stationed at MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa, with the 15th Tactical Fighter Wing.

Brodsky and Clamme were picked up by a helicopter. An Air Force spokesman said the two pilots were on a routine training mission.

U.S. Says Bombs Have No Effect On Vietnam Peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department says U.S. bombing of North Vietnam has not "interfered in any way with prospects for the discussion of a peace settlement."

The comment Friday followed reports from East European sources at the United Nations that December bombings near Hanoi had wrecked prospects for peace talks which were then being promoted.

State Department spokesman Carl Barthol said, "We have sought from the other side some indication of a reciprocal response which would justify the cessation of bombing of military targets as a step towards peace. At no time have we received any indication, direct or indirect, from North Vietnam that it was prepared to make such a response."

President Johnson said Thursday in a news conference that "just almost any step" toward peace from North Vietnam could lead to a halt in the bombings.

Meanwhile at the United Nations, Secretary-General U Thant was reported by a spokesman to be continuing "in his own quiet way" efforts at peace.

33 Writers Appeal

Request Release Of 2 Imprisoned Russian Authors

LONDON (AP)—Thirty-three leading literary figures from the United States, Britain, France, West Germany and Italy appealed today to Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to release two imprisoned Russian writers.

The appeal which appeared in the Times of London was made on behalf of Andrei D. Sinyavsky and Yuli M. Daniel, who were sentenced to prison last Feb. 14 for writing "anti-Soviet works" and publishing them abroad under pseudonyms.

Sinyavsky, who used the pen name Abram Tertz, was sentenced to seven years, and Daniel, whose pseudonym was Nikolai Arzhak, was sentenced to five years. Both are reported serving their sentences in labor camps.

"Our latest information is that Daniel is suffering increasingly from an old war wound, and Sinyavsky's health is also reported to have deteriorated," the Westerners said.

"The impending arrival in England of the Russian premier, Mr. Kosygin, prompts us to appeal to him for the release of these two writers. In this we are joining the action of Amnesty International on behalf of our colleagues."

Two Mishaps Caused By Icy Thoroughfares

Three minor traffic accidents were reported Friday afternoon and evening by Highland state police, with ice conditions listed as the cause of two and no injuries or arrests involved in any of the three.

The first occurred at 12:10 p.m. on Vineyard Avenue, Town of Lloyd, and involved cars driven by Mary Parker, 32, of Maple Avenue, Highland, and George Perry, 30, of Idlewild Road, Marlboro. Trooper C. J. Bebenec, who investigated, said the two vehicles were in collision as the Parker car was going west. Perry automobile was proceeding east, made a wide turn to avoid three vehicles parked on the shoulder of the road and was struck by the car driven by the woman.

At 4:50 p.m. a car operated by David White, 21, of Wallkill, and a truck driven by Malcolm Stalker, 28, of Pine Bush, collided on Route 208, four-and-one-half miles south of Route 44-45, Town of Shawangunk. Both vehicles were southbound when White slowed to turn into a private driveway and was struck on the right rear when the Stalker auto skidded on ice. Trooper G. G. Henne investigated.

Shawangunk was the scene of still another minor mishap at 8 p.m. when cars driven by Mae Grein, 42, of Wallkill, and Donald Smith, 20, of Newburgh, collided on Route 300 at Route 208. Both vehicles were westbound on the highway when the Grein car stopped for a "yield right of way" sign. Smith was unable to stop, skidded on ice and hit the car in front in the rear. Trooper G. G. Henne was at the scene.

He said there was no question but that the eight tumors were "part and parcel of the cancer in Ruby's lungs. And he couldn't have had that type of lesion in his brain for as long as three years."

The autopsy also showed the same variety of cancer had penetrated Ruby's lymph nodes, liver, pancreas, right pleura, ribs and vertebra, in addition to his lungs and brain.

Ruby's death sentence conviction was overturned in October and trial was awaiting a second trial when he was stricken in jail with what first was treated as a cold. He was transferred to Parkland Dec. 9. The initial diagnosis of pneumonia was changed the next day to cancer.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has arrested and begun deportation proceedings against a Ft. Bragg, N.C., Vietnamese language instructor earlier ordered to leave the country by Feb. 16.

He was flown to Washington and jailed Friday in lieu of $2,500 bond pending a deportation hearing next Friday.

Returns to U.S. Lines

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—"The only thing that can be more awful than this is the news we now await—and that is that Bob has been returned to the American lines."

Radio-television broadcaster Warren Doremus made that comment Friday night after the Navy announced that a brother, Lt. Cmdr. Robert B. Doremus, 35, was one of three airmen who had been listed as killed in action in Vietnam but now are known to be prisoners of the North Vietnamese communists.

Doremus is public affairs director of WHFC and WHEC-TV and lives in suburban East Rochester.

Another brother, George, a Xerox Corp. employee, lives in nearby Penfield. Their parents and a third brother, William Doremus, make their homes in Montclair, N.J. A sister, Mrs. James Courter, resides in Cleveland, Ohio.

Robert's wife and three children live in Wilmington, Del. Warren said the family had been told of Robert's status 10 days ago, but was requested by the Navy to say nothing until the announcement was made. He added:

"This is the kind of news which your heart tells you somehow or another is possible, but you know better than to imagine it will come true."

Chamber Slates Press Parley on Consumer Service

A "frank discussion" of the lack of consumer service facilities available in the Kingston area set for Wednesday and a program designed to attract new residents and industry to the Kingston area, have been aired by Kingston area Chamber of Commerce officials.

The conference on service facilities—open only to members of the press—will be held in chamber offices in the Governor Clinton Hotel building at 10 a.m.

Representing the chamber will be George Svirsky, chamber president; Peter O. Allen, executive vice president; and Richard L. Treat, assistant general manager of the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Svirsky is a longtime city retailer who has served in a number of community capacities. Allen is former manager of the Better Business Bureau of Schenectady.

At November, has served on BBB Boards of Directors in Portland, Me. and Schenectady. While in Schenectady he was publisher of that city's Union-Star newspaper and served one term as president of the Better Business Bureau.

According to Allen, the conference will involve discussion of reasons "for the present state of affairs" and possible action to correct the situation.

The attracting of new residents and industry was the basis of a program announced by the Business Development Committee of the local chamber. According to V. James Andretta, committee chairman, one of the first plans outdoor advertising campaign.

Basic theme of the program—conducted with cooperation from the Modjeska Sign Studios—will be to point out uncrowded conditions of Ulster County.

Andretta said that, with the high number of area visitors each year, it was the committee's belief such a campaign would have "point-of-interest impact."

He added that because of the "four season vacationland aspect of Ulster County, people are continually in the area on pleasure trips or passing through on their way to other skiing, hunting, fishing and camping areas."

The chairman noted that many investigate the advantages of considering an Ulster County location. He said the program will be studied and developed during the "next several months."

Car Flips Over; Girl Is Injured

State police at Lake Katrine investigated two accidents as the weekend got underway—one Friday night and another early this morning.

A 17-year-old girl suffered lacerations of the neck, head, leg and hip in a spectacular one-car crash at 9:25 p.m. Friday on Route 32 in Rosendale about six-tenths of a mile north of Route 213. She was Pamela M. Dittmar, of Coxin Road, Cottekill, driver of the car, which troopers said was one of the most heavily damaged vehicles they had ever viewed.

In rolling over, they said, the car was totally wrecked. Also injured was a passenger, Wayne Ryzdewsky, of Tillson. The victims were taken to Kingston Hospital by Don's Ambulance of Rosendale.

Trooper R. M. Malloy, who investigated, said the car was southbound on Route 32 when it ran off the right side of the road, struck a tree headon, uprooted the tree, flipped over on its top and came to rest upside down with the rear of the car against a second tree.

One driver was arrested after two cars were in collision at 4 o'clock this morning on Route 32 at the intersection of Route 212, Saugerties. He was Richard M. Donovan, 27, of Box 3780, RD 2, Saugerties, who received lacerations of the lower lip in the mishap and was cited for following too close. Donovan's car and one driven by Richard Brommer, 31, of 193 Hutton Street, Jersey City, N. J., were both going west on Route 212 when Brommer, who was unfamiliar with the road, slowed to stop and Donovan, who was following too close to stop in time, struck the Brommer vehicle. Trooper J. J. Brainerd investigated and issued the summons.

Looks Bad for Hoffa
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department says Teamster President James R. Hoffa's claim that he was burgled during his 1964 jury tampering trial is "without any foundation in fact."

And the department sees big rewards offered in Hoffa's behalf as one reason to view "with skepticism" the affidavits supporting the eavesdropping charge.

The Justice Department told the Supreme Court in a memorandum Friday that even before Hoffa raised the eavesdropping issue, it had reviewed the case and found there was no monitoring of Hoffa, his lawyers or the jury at the Chattanooga, Tenn., trial.

In a petition to the court Jan. 26, Hoffa claimed new evidence of eavesdropping had been uncovered since the high court upheld his conviction Dec. 12.

The Teamsters' leader faces eight years in prison on the jury tampering charge. He also is appealing another five-year sentence on a conspiracy conviction.

"Dragnet" is back, ma'am—and Jack Webb, as Sgt. Joe Friday, is again asking the questions. This time out, his sidekick is officer Bill Gannon, played by veteran actor Harry Morgan. The new half-hour NBC show airs Thursday evenings.

Dum-de-dum-dum—'Dragnet' Is on the Prowl Again for TV's Baddies

HOLLYWOOD

By EDGAR PENTON

If the word "Dragnet" fails to stir nostalgic memories, you just weren't "with" the radio world back in '49, when NBC first aired the now-legendary show.

Nor were you "with" television, in 1952, when "Dragnet" became THE video show of its day.

This oversight can now be corrected, for the show with the flavor of police procedure steeped deep into every scene is back on home screens Thursday evenings, 9:30-10 p. m., Eastern time, NBC, as "Dragnet 1967."

And, at the helm again is its central figure, Jack Webb, as star, director, and producer. To put the facts straight, ma'am Universal Television, Mark VII Ltd., and the NBC net are co-producers.

To return to nostalgia: from '52 to '59, the faces of Jack Webb and Ben Alexander became, through their characterizations of Sgt. Joe Friday and sidekick Frank Smith, the video embodiment of law and order. The theme music—Dum-de-dum-dum—was heard everywhere, and Badge 714 became, perhaps, the best-known symbol in the annals of police history.

The show was parodied and copied, but there was only one "Dragnet." In 1959 it went off the tube simply because Webb, 10 years with one show, wanted to move on to new challenges.

His present challenge: to introduce "Dragnet" to a vast, new audience on the home-screen side of the picture circuit. Little has been changed in the show's basic format, according to Webb. It can be said that this is the first dramatic television series to be reprised intact. As Webb puts it, "It's Sergeant Friday, through and through."

"Dragnet 1967" does, however, have a new face, and a good one. Veteran actor Harry Morgan, well-known for his series roles in "Pete and Gladys," "December Bride" and "The Richard Boone Show," joins Webb as Friday's new sidekick, officer Bill Gannon. (Ben Alexander, by the time the new series was casting, had joined the ranks of "The Felony Squad.")

But Morgan, Webb says, is

JACK WEBB as Sgt. Joe Friday, and HARRY MORGAN as his sidekick, Bill Gannon, do their police procedural work for "DRAGNET" 1967 which airs Thursday on NBC 9:30-10 p. m.

ideal for his show. A formidable talent, Morgan is equally adept at playing either heavy or light drama, as the occasion demands. "The one aspect of the show that is different," Webb says, "is that today, Friday and Gannon are facing some new situations which didn't prevail when the old series was on."

He speaks of such ultramodern situations as LSD in the hands of teen-agers, a Supreme Court ruling concerning advising suspects of their rights at the time of arrest, and an apparently growing disrespect for law and those who would uphold it.

"These attitudes, devices and problems," Webb says, "will all be treated in the new show. Without taking sides, we're going to show them all, head-on. There's a tremendous amount to say about the world we're living in today. The new series is going to unfold a number of such things."

Webb says there have been some "changes around headquarters since I was last there. They have computers which can run a suspect list in a matter of minutes, where it used to take long, back-breaking hours. And there's a new breed of 'cop' on the job today—the young policeman. He's better educated, better trained and, from what I've seen, is doing the job better than ever. We're going to reflect him in the series.

"Of course," Webb states, "there hasn't really been much change in the basic concept of police work. It's still the hard-working police detective, putting in long hours of legwork, following up threads of possible evidence, that accounts for bringing in a suspect. It is basically this process that "Dragnet 1967" dwells upon most heavily. We did it in the original because it reflected the truth; we'll do it now because it still reflects the truth."

Webb has again been granted the full co-operation of the Los Angeles Police Department, in production of the series.

Webb does more than have the department's public information division read his scripts and make technical changes; he has insisted that they suggest stories and make major suggestions concerning every plot he deals with. "If you're going to do a series such as this, with a nearly documentary approach," Webb says, "you might just as well go the whole route so far as accuracy's concerned."

To insure accuracy during production, a police technical adviser is present during the shooting of each episode. "At the height of the original series," he grins, "I had become so thoroughly aware of police procedure that occasionally we'd make corrections that the technical adviser himself wouldn't catch. But I still want him on board—he can save you a lot of misery."

Webb doesn't know today just how the new series will weather. "There are a lot of TV-watching kids today who don't remember the old show. We've got a whole new segment of our total audience to 'break in' to the 'Dragnet' concept. Furthermore, competition's different today. We're competing with late-vintage, well-produced movies on an opposite network. We never did that before."

But generally, the dynamically energetic producer-director-star is optimistic. "If it's true that the show had a certain magnetism to it before, then it's going to have more of it now."

"The timing is right, too. I think that, while some factions of our society are out to downgrade law enforcement, there are others who believe, more than ever, that it must be supported. This, I think, works in our favor. They'll tend to align with a project such as this one, which supports law and order."

How does Webb feel personally about doing "Dragnet" again? "It's great. I've been elsewhere for the past seven years, doing other things, but I must confess that every now and then during that time I'd find myself missing it."

Nelson Toasts Work and Leisure

By JOAN CROSBY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Barry Nelson has discovered that a human being does, too, need a few hours with nothing to do.

And so, after 3½ years, he is leaving NBC Radio's Monitor after his Feb. 5 broadcast.

This, however, does not leave him without work. He is appearing on Broadway in "Cactus Flower." He will be seen on Passworld the day he leaves Monitor. "The Borgia Stick," a film he made in New York for NBC-TV's world premiere, will be telecast March 14.

"The Borgia Stick" is an adventure drama, with most of the actors involved in some kind of illegalities. But not Nelson, the clean-cut, all American sophisticate.

"I have moved out of all that," he said. "I hold champagne glasses these days."

One of Broadway's best light comedians, Nelson says the trick in keeping a performance fresh in a long-run hit like "Cactus Flower" is to "think funny." Instead of the same old joke, "you must find different ways of telling it. It's a mistake on the part of actors who think you must set your performance on opening night and then keep it like that."

"Actors become insecure once

the director is not around, and so, too many become rigid once a play has opened. But that lacks adventure. Acting is a creative field and there is no room for rigidity and stultification of your thoughts.

"There are lots of possibilities for error in this theory of mine. But an actor must use good taste, which means constantly editing yourself. You must not be seduced by the laughter and philanthropic feeling of an audience ready to laugh too much when a show is an established comedy hit."

Say the name Speed Riggs to the average television viewer who has had a television set for more than 10 years, and chances are you'll hear "Sold American" in return.

Riggs, the most famous tobacco auctioneer in the country, is celebrating his 30th year in radio and television and is on his second tour of commercial duty for the American Tobacco Co.

Actually, his association with ATC was never severed. He was kept on a retainer, even though ATC changed its commercial image. But now Speed is back, facile-tongued as ever, and happy as a canary, (a man who works for American can't be happy as a Lark).

"TV is the closest thing to my love for the auctioneering profession," said Riggs, who set a record when at the age of 19 he sold 784 baskets of tobacco in 42 minutes.

"A tobacco auctioneer is a man of color and dignity. He carries prestige and is regarded as a man of integrity in the South. I love auctioneering. Being a child of the depression, this was the only opportunity I had to pull myself out."

Or talk himself out.

Hickory Daiquiri

It's John Davidson's story: A doctor used to stop into a bar every night and have his favorite drink, a daiquiri with a walnut in it. One night the drink had a different taste and the doctor asked the bartender why. "I ran out of walnuts and had to substitute a hickory nut. It's a hickory daiquiri, doc." John uses the joke in his night club act. His act proves, as his television fans know, that he is a very talented young entertainer.

Stars Are Born

For the And - This - Is - How - Stars - Are - Born-Department? : Seems a script for a series had been filed away at ABC-TV because the leads were so special the casting department had not been able to find the right types. Then a secretary saw a wild group called The Uncalled-For 3 on TV and suggested to her boss that the zanies would be right for the series. Two weeks later the contracts were signed, and now they have a pilot.

TV Questions & Answers

BEWITCHED CRITIC—I know Bewitched is a comedy show but must they present N.A.S.A. as a place run by thugs? It's the wrong impression of the space center—Mark Morris, Abilene, Texas.

If you think the ABC-TV series is hard on the astronauts take a peek at what I Dream of Jeannie does to them.

FUTILE FUGITIVE—What's the purpose of The Fugitive if it never plans on showing the ending?—Cora Sage, Miami, Fla.

The purpose is to keep you intrigued by what will happen to Richard Kimble who is running away from the law. It has worked for three seasons. Several other popular series use the gimmick, too. Will the people on Gilligan's Island get back to the mainland? Will the Lost in Space folks return to earth? Will The Invaders take over the earth? As soon as the questions are solved the programs will go off the air.

GLEASON RETURNING—Will Jackie Gleason be back next season? If so, will Frank Fontaine return with him?—O. S., Reading, Pa.

Jackie says he will return for the 1967-68 season. He hasn't given any indication of what his format will be. But it's assumed it will be like this year's, which doesn't include Fontaine.

WAR GAMES—Was there really such an outfit in Africa like Rat Patrol? Veterans tell me the ABC-TV series is pure fiction.—R. H., Findlay, Ohio.

The ex-GIs are right. Executive producer Lee Rich calls the "Rats" free-wheeling, hit-and-run forays with Rommel's Afrika Korps "outrageous audacity." The series was inspired by the North African campaigns but the scripts are all fictional.

Uphill Fight

Barry Nelson thinks the best filmed entertainment being out these days comes from independent producers. "Great fear causes everything to be bland on television," said Nelson, who is costarring on Broadway in "Cactus Flower." "There is too much deputization of power. No one wants to take the rap. No one wants to say 'Let's do it this way.' You are fighting a committee all the time."

Herring is considered the most important food fish in the world.

THE SMOTHERS BROTHERS

Smothers Brothers on Rise

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD—"The problem was that the show was written for any two guys off the street," Tom Smothers said.

"We would say something and no one got the point," Dick Smothers said.

"We were hooked into plot—page after page after page," Tom said.

"We have to work flexible. We have to depend on spontaneity," Dick said.

"We're LIVE performers," Tom said.

The Smothers Brothers, returning to television a year later, looked back at their one season strikeout in a filmed situation comedy series and admitted the failure really shook 'em up. "Tom wanted to quit for a couple of years," Dick said.

"I was sick of the business," Tom admitted.

"But I thought it was important to do this. I talked Tom into it. We needed this to take our minds off our other failure," Dick leveled.

What Dick Smothers had talked brother Tom Smothers into is The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour, a new full-hour comedy-variety series in color which will make its debut on CBS-TV Sunday, Feb. 5.

"We're up against Bonanza," Tom said.

"We'll either be heroes," he grinned, "or we can just shrug our shoulders and ask, 'Well, what did you expect opposite Bonanza?'"

"I'm ready," Dick kidded. "As soon as we signed this contract I moved into a cheaper home."

There was more to their first TV strikeout than met the public eye at the time. The problem was that because of their youth they were surrounded and guided by a set of old movie pros at the filmed comedy game. In Tom and Dick, these old pros saw a young Abbott & Costello and old gags and situations were revived for them.

It turned out to be Tom, Dick and hoary.

"We just didn't relate," Dick explains about their first team of writers and director. "They were thinking 30 years ago and we were thinking today. There was no meeting of the minds. Now we're with younger people with whom we do relate."

As it turned out, Tom and Dick didn't really bomb out in that series. It was the show that bombed and this the critics happily said. "It was funny," Tom says, "all three networks wanted us when the show was cancelled. All three told us we should do a variety show live with an audience."

"But," Dick said, "a failure shakes you up. So we went back to night clubs and to concerts and TV guest spots."

"Now," Tom said, "we think the timing is right."

Dressed to Kill

When actor Ken Lynch showed up for his role as a detective on Bob Hope Presents the Chrysler Theater, he was wearing a yellow turtleneck sweater, green slacks and red sneakers. Hope did a double take and said, "Ken, you make the wildest looking plainclothesman I ever saw."

"Of course, it's messy! When I said it was going to be the eagles versus the bears, what made you think it's be a football game?"

Hope to Emcee 'Oscar' Awards

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences' 39th Annual Awards presentation will be carried live by the ABC-TV and Radio Networks on Monday, April 10, 10 p. m., EST, it was jointly announced today by Leonard Goldberg, ABC Vice President in Charge of TV Network Programming, and Robert R. Pauley, President of the ABC Radio Network.

The event will mark the seventh consecutive year that the "Oscar show has been carried live by ABC. The presentation will be telecast in color and broadcast from the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium.

The show will again combine the talents of five men largely responsible for the success of last year's presentation. Academy president Arthur Freed has named Joe Pasternak to produce the show, Bob Hope will serve as master of ceremonies, Richard Dunlap will again produce and direct the telecast for the network, and John Green will be music director and conductor.

For Pasternak this will be the third successive year that he has produced the "Oscar" Awards show. He has produced more than 60 films since 1937, including such notable pictures as "Anchors Aweigh," "The Great Caruso" and "Love Me or Leave Me."

Hope's appearance will mark the 13th time he has served as master of ceremonies, from banquet and theater settings to radio and television coverage. The academy has honored the comedian five times. Last year he received a gold medal for unique and distinguished service to the motion picture industry and the academy. Previously he has received a special silver plaque, a life membership, an honorary "Oscar" statuette, and the Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award.

Music director John Green will be returning to the presentation for the ninth time, and the third consecutive year. Green is a four-time "Oscar" winner, and has been nominated 12 times. He received the coveted award for the best scoring of a musical picture with "Easter Parade," "An American in Paris" and "West Side Story," and for the best one-reel short subject "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

Richard Dunlap, who will produce and direct the ABC-TV telecast for the seventh year in succession, is a veteran of some of TV's outstanding programs. In addition to directing many individual episodes of filmed series, he directed "Voice of Firestone" for ABC-TV, and was associated with the "Omnibus" program for three seasons, two as director and one as associate producer. Since the last "Oscarcast," he directed the "Ice Follies" special with Don Adams, as well as the 1966 "Emmy" Awards telecast.

The ABC-TV Network colorcast of last year's Academy Awards presentation garnered the largest single-network audience in the history of television.

No Handicaps With 'Daisies'

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD — Pretty Patricia Crowley's labeling of herself as "a disaster area" came as an early morning surprise.

It was an early morning interview because of her sudden time off from the set of Please Don't Eat The Daisies but her early morning look had nothing to do with any disaster.

She looked gorgeous. It was the game of golf that turned Pat into a disaster area. A year ago her husband, low-handicapped attorney Ed Hookstratten, gave her a beautiful set of clubs with the thought, "You need the relaxation and it's a lot of fun."

"So," Pat laughed, "I signed up for lessons and really tried to learn. But after weeks of lessons I was still a disaster area. It was terrible. I was striking those awful poses and hitting the ball two feet. Now I'm playing tennis. Really, a girl can look very good missing a tennis shot compared to missing a golf shot."

What Pat Crowley isn't missing these days are the original plans for her starring TV series.

"The idea at first," she explained, "was the problem of a husband and wife, both with careers, raising a family of four children. The first year was devoted to the problems of only the children. This we eventually turned away from and now we're even getting away now and then from the conflict of careers. This year we did a spoof of The Man From U.N.C.L. another about computers, one about husbands reliving their bachelor days and now we're even doing a musical."

The musical, for a P.T.A. show, is the Please Don't Eat The Daisies segment for Feb. 11 and will have Pat singing and dancing up a storm with the Righteous Brothers. Mobbed by over-eager fans while in Ridgmont for a concert, "brothers" Bob Hatfield and Bill Medley seek shelter in the Nash household, where plans are underway for a PTA musical.

Pat has warbled before, in summer stock versions of "Kiss Me, Kate" and "Hazel Flagg", and, she admits, "I have a secret passion to become another Carol Haney or Gwen Verdon. Once you do a musical—it's so much fun—it's rough to do anything else. You can get away with a lot more on the stage than you can in front of a camera."

Her singing on the show turned out so well that now she has an offer to do an Andy Williams Show, the announcement of which will be made soon.

Being the on screen mother of four children has resulted in no problems at home for Pat, the off-screen mother of eight-year-old Jon and six-year-old Ann, who see and enjoy the show every week.

"There is just pride, not jealousy from them," she reports. "Jan has been on the set with me and one day he told me, 'Mom, if any of your children get sick, let me take over.'"

Same Gift

A story on the lighter side: Robert Culp and Bill Cosby inadvertently gave each other the same Christmas gift: a $1,000 cigarette lighter. So, very much like their I Spy byplay, Cosby bet Culp $1,000 that Culp would close his lighter first. Culp took him up on it. Now they both spend their spare time making sure their lighters are all right.

Sonny Fox
Tours Portugal

WNEW-TV's Sonny Fox will take his young "Wonderama" viewers on a 4-hour color tour of Portugal, Sunday, Feb. 5, from 8:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. on Channel 5.

In this special program filmed in color entirely in Portugal, Sonny will learn folk dancing from a prize-winning troupe, visit a fishing village, harvest cork in a cork forest, and attend the religious services at Fatima.

Also included in the film will be a tour of a retired bull-fighter's ranch, where Sonny will learn how horses and bulls are trained for the ring.

The globe-trotting "Wonderama" series, now in its ninth season, has also taken viewers on previous TV tours of Denmark, Finland, and Israel.

Only Lost Golfers

On a forthcoming Chrysler Comedy Special, Bob Hope plays a golf match on a simulated African course infested with snakes, elephants, a hippopotamus or two, giraffes, zebras, lions and other assorted beasts. As Hope gets ready to tee off, he asks the golf pro, "Do you lose many balls around here?" The pro says, "No, just golfers."

Georgy Girl

Harry Rasky, who produced, directed and wrote Hall of Kings, to be seen on ABC-TV on Feb. 14, says Lynn Redgrave, who plays young Queen Victoria on the show, really is a Georgy Girl. "Even though she told me the role was her most challenging," Rasky said, "she still found time to be funny. We would shoot at night and one morning at 3 a. m., she and I decided to have a snack. There were no comfortable seating spots inside Westminster Abbey, so she arranged a table on the dashboard of my car."

A Message to Advertisers!

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE
READ THE WANT ADS EVERY DAY!

Among the large audience there's bound to be somebody who wants the things you have to offer. That person is not going to spend time, effort, money or gasoline to find out details of your proposition UNLESS you have worded your message so that it interests him. A few more words may mean a lot more dollars in your pocket . . . remember that when you place your next advertisement.

The next time you call an ad taker to place a Want Ad in the Daily Freeman, stop and consider this. You are about to spend some money for an advertisement and you want to get the utmost in results. To accomplish this your ad should tell ALL the details about the things you are trying to accomplish. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that frequently prevent results . . .

- DON'T OMIT THE ADDRESS!
Many out of town readers will write you but will not spend money for a long distance call.
- DON'T OMIT THE PHONE NUMBER!
- DON'T USE BLIND BOX NUMBERS!
Avoid them at all costs. They are difficult to answer. It is more convenient to phone.
- DON'T LEAVE HOME ON DAYS OTHERS MIGHT ANSWER YOUR AD!
- DON'T OMIT WORDS THAT WOULD TEND TO INCREASE THE NUMBER OF RESPONSES
- DON'T CONCEAL THE PRICE DESIRED!
Surveys show that many people will not answer an ad unless the price is given.
- DO GIVE YOUR AD SOME THOUGHT BEFORE CALLING!
- DO RUN YOUR AD MORE THAN ONE DAY!
Not all of our readers are home every day. Just the person who wants what you are offering may not see your ad until the 9th or 10th time it runs.

Lawrence Gets ABC Promotion

William H. Lawrence, who has covered the comings and goings of every American President since Franklin Delano Roosevelt, has been named Roving Political Editor for ABC News, it was announced today by ABC News President Elmer W. Lower.

One of Lawrence's most immediate projects will be to prepare two hour-long political documentaries which will be shown on ABC-TV during the summer of 1967.

Although he will maintain his base of operations in Washington, Lawrence will travel the country covering political stories of national and international significance for ABC-TV's "Peter Jennings With The News" program. At the same time, he will be setting some of the groundwork for ABC News' coverage of the 1968 Presidential election.

Frank Reynolds, who has been assigned to the White House beat with Lawrence, will now become the network's Number One man covering the President.

Lawrence joined ABC News in May, 1961 after a distinguished 20-year career with the New York Times. He is the only reporter who participated in both telecasts of "A Conversation With The President" — with the late President John F. Kennedy in December, 1962, and with President Lyndon B. Johnson in March, 1964.

Most recently, Lawrence was a member of the ABC News anchor team providing live color coverage of the 1966 Congressional and Gubernatorial elections. In 1966, he also covered the important primary races in Alabama, and California and anchored ABC-TV's six part series, "Election '66".

In April 1965, Lawrence was the recipient of the George Foster Peabody Broadcasting Award for recognition of his outstanding reportorial work. The award cited his political coverage during the 1964 Presidential campaign and election.

During that election year, Lawrence assisted a former President, Dwight D. Eisenhower, during his broadcasts for ABC-TV and ABC Radio at the Republican National Convention and throughout the campaign.

Born in Lincoln, Nebraska, Lawrence attended the University of Nebraska. He began his journalistic career with the Lincoln Star in 1932. Three years later he joined the Associated Press, serving in both the Lincoln and Omaha Bureaus. He also worked briefly on the staff of the Omaha World-Herald.

In 1935, Lawrence joined United Press in Chicago where he became a specialist in labor reporting. Two years later, he was transferred to UP's Washington Bureau.

His first major political assignment was covering the 1940 Republican and Democratic conventions and the campaign of GOP Presidential nominee Wendell Wilkie for UP.

In April, 1941, Lawrence joined the Washington Bureau of the New York Times. He was soon assigned to the Times Bureau in London and was appointed the paper's Chief Moscow Correspondent in 1943, a position he held until February, 1945. He spent the remainder of 1945 in the western Pacific, covering the battle of Okinawa and the B-29 raids on Tokyo.

Following World War II, Lawrence organized the Times' United Nations Bureau in 1946, and served as the Times' Chief Balkan Correspondent from 1947 to 1948. He covered the 1948 political conventions and Presidential campaign for the Times and radio station WQXR.

He was assigned to cover the 1952 national political conventions, the campaigns which followed, and in 1956 pioneered in setting up the Times' team survey system of reporting key state political trends, an experience which has served him well with ABC News.

In 1959, Lawrence was President of the National Press Club in Washington, and was the man who introduced visiting Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to the national TV and radio audiences when he appeared at the club.

Sir Walter Raleigh was a soldier, explorer, writer and businessman.

BACK FROM VIETNAM and out with beau Burt Reynolds is actress Chris Noel, who continues to make regular broadcasts to GIs in the war area even though she has left there. Chris started the broadcasts to counter-attack those by the enemy demoralizer, "Hanoi Hannah."

Eileen Fulton In TV Soap Opera

BY BILL BYERS

NEW YORK — Eileen Fulton, smothered in a full-length breath of spring mink coat, doesn't look as if she has just climbed down a hill in Black Mountain, N. C. But she certainly sounds as if she has.

The actress, with her reddish locks streaked blonde and frizzled prettily like a Latin Quarter headliner, oozes Southern charm.

She isn't the same girl who 14 months ago grew tired playing Lisa Hughes on As the World Turns. After five years in the daytime soap opera, and a short sista in the role on the CBS-TV nighttime version, Private World, Eileen left Lisa to take the night club route.

Now she is back again, playing as she says, "dirty Lisa." "At first I was dubious about returning. Surely the writers would have softened the character in my absence. I'm happy she is as mean as ever—the same old homewrecker bent on always getting her way," said Eileen in her native soft Black Mountain accent, which is much more pronounced than in the old days.

The network, which drew up a better paying contract to encourage the actress to return, has always been curious about Lisa's huge popularity. Her fan mail was tremendous from the first time she was on the air. During Eileen's absence, the network didn't dare get somebody else to replace her so they told viewers Lisa Hughes had gone off to Chicago, with a new husband, to live happily ever after. This the fans wouldn't believe and continued to pester the network to bring her back.

"So now I'm back. And as you might suspect, if you know Lisa, her marriage went on the rocks," said Eileen, with a slight giggle.

How long Eileen will stay as Lisa depends on several things.

There is a lot of "air" in her contract. Always restless, the actress, who enjoyed singing and dancing in her night club tour, wants to do it again. She has also made sure that she can do a Broadway role (she played Honey in the matinee company of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?") if one comes her way. And then there is this idea of starring in a movie.

"I want to play Amelia Earhart," said the high-flying Eileen.

But, at the moment, she is content with Lisa. She knows where her soap is buttered.

"When I was in the nightclubs they came to see Lisa. They left to say they would come back to see Eileen. But I'm not so sure. If I lose my television audience,

Never Together

Bet you didn't know this: Dorothy Lamour, Bing Crosby and Bob Hope have never yet appeared on a TV program together. (Old movies don't count.) Recently Dorothy came from her Baltimore home to appear on Hollywood Palace with Bing and the Chrysler Theater with Bob, but the three of them never made it in front of one camera.

I'm just a little girl from Black Mountain again," she said.

"I believe in the glamorous life. That's what the public wants. Too many actresses are grubby with dirty belly buttons. Lisa isn't said Eileen, snuggling warmly in her pink-tinted mink.

Rising TV Costs

Call Economics Key Factor in Demise of Shows

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There is more to the cancellation of a television series than an anemic rating. Economics can also play a crucial factor, as in the case of "Green Hornet."

The major film studios, which now produce the bulk of television series, are becoming more and more alarmed at the rising cost of putting a show on the air. Recently Darryl F. Zanuck, president of the biggest series maker, 20th Century-Fox, told me he was considering cutting down the number of shows made by the studio.

"We were making so many series we had to rent space at other studios," he explained. "When you do that, your possibility of profit becomes precarious."

Even with a hit, he added, the studio loses money on the first year's product. The second or third year could produce a profit. But some series never pay off until they go into reruns.

One of the Fox series is "Green Hornet," which can be classed as an iffy show. It has received fair ratings, but star Van Williams figures it will return next season only if the economics can be solved.

"Bill Dozier, our producer, has been trying to sell ABC and the sponsors on the idea of going to an hour show next season. It would make sense from the actors' standpoint. One of the problems with the show was that the network wanted half of it to be action. It meant dragging in action for action's sake, and that was lousy. We were left with only 12 or 13 minutes of dialogue, and that wasn't enough to establish any of the characters or develop the plot," Williams said.

"But most important of all, a half-hour show is almost impossible to do on an economic basis. Our show is budgeted at $110,000, and I don't think we've met that mark in more than two or three of the 26 shows. I understand the loss to the company has been a million and a half dollars, some of which will be recovered on reruns.

"Converting to an hour show would mean an outlay of only $25,000 more, which would make it a much better investment. I understand Fox is trying to convert all its half-hour shows into hours."

Rare War Film Ch. 17 Feature

Hitler's folly and Germany's tragedy are the subject of "N.E.T. Journal: The War Relived," a German hindsight view of World War II, Monday, February 13 at 8:30 on Channel 17. The program will be repeated Sunday, February 19 at 6:30.

Featuring rare war films taken by Germans and Russian combat cameramen, the National Educational Television adaptation focuses on Hitler, the tactician with the grandiose dream. But as it spans the six years of war, the German film asks also: "Who cheered? Who obeyed? Who is guilty?" From the destruction of nations, the film moves repeatedly back to Germany — the boastful headlines, the fervent demonstrations.

Meanwhile, on three fronts—Russia, Africa, and the Atlantic—"The War Relived" reflects the war's changing tide. In Russia, especially, the battle is portrayed with devastating impact. At home, German headlines erroneously read "War in East decided," while the army is diverted away from Moscow, toward Stalingrad. This is one of several tactical mistakes for which the program blames Hitler. Then, in the winter of 1941, the Russian army is seen counter-attacking on skis. Finally, there is Stalingrad, and the other defeats which it signals. And in the end, Hitler, "the madman in the bunker," is seen leading Berlin's last defenders—the sick and the old, men in overcoats and children of 14 sporting "their decorations and their destroyed youths."

"N.E.T. Journal: The War Relived" is a 1967 presentation of National Educational Television, based on a film by Planet-Film Production, Germany. N.E.T. executive producer: William Weston. English version: Dominic Capezza. Narrator: Norman Rose.

Plunge for Safety's Sake

The late model car pointed straight down and plunged 30 feet like a wingless dive bomber to wrap its nose around a section of telephone pole. There were no injuries, however. The staged crash was part of a research project at Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory at Buffalo, N.Y. aimed at minimizing the effects of single-car accidents on the nation's highways. The research is being conducted by Cornell Laboratory under a $147,786 contract with the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Data obtained from instruments on the car and telephone pole in several car-drop experiments will be used in a computer simulation of a wide variety of single-car accidents. Eventual aim of the program is to reduce the incidence of injury-producing accidents and economic loss from property damage that occurs when cars run off highways. Despite the apparent drama of a drop such as pictured here, the impact was at about 30 m.p.h., a lower speed than occurs in many highway accidents.

Ed Platt Finally Gets a 'Name'

HOLLYWOOD—After 27 years as an actor, after 50 movies and 150 television shows, Ed Platt finally has a name.

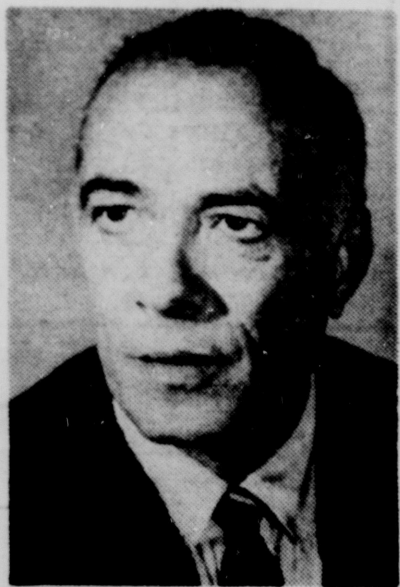

The name is Ed Platt.

"I was one of those actors people recognized," he grins, "but when they asked me for my autograph I always caught them sneaking a quick peek at my signature because they didn't really know my name."

As everyone knows by now, deep-voiced, 51-year-old Ed Platt plays the long-suffering Chief of CONTROL, boss of Don Adams, on NBC-TV's hit comedy series Get Smart.

Ed may suffer in the role but: "Really, I'm a fat cat. Every character actor in town envies me and it takes me half an hour every day to count my blessings."

Until Get Smart went on the air, Ed's acting world ranged from western heavies to loveable old fathers, from loveable doctors to fiery district attorneys and stern judges. He was always acting but he was never a star.

Winning a name via Get Smart he admits "is great for the ego but I'm even more delighted about the comedy facets to the role. I had never played comedy before. It's a crazy business but delightful."

"I guess my children are the happiest about Get Smart. There are three of them—11, 10 and 8—who until recently found it difficult explaining to young friends about their daddy's job. Now they just say he's the Chief on Get Smart and as the 11-year-old said to me recently,

"Dad, we're famous."

How Ed won the role of chief reflects Ed's own words about the crazy business he's in. He was called in to play a test scene with Don Adams just two days before filming of the series began. Before doing the test, he commented to his agent, "It can't be much of a role otherwise they would have cast it weeks ago."

When he later mentioned this to his friend, Howard Morris, who directed the pilot, Morris laughed and said:

"You don't know the whole story, Ed. We've been testing actors for this part for six weeks. I believe you were the 86th."

The combination of creator Buck Henry, producer Leonard Stern and Don Adams is the reason for the show's big success, Ed believes. "Henry and Stern are perfectionists and Don really surprised me. He's unerring in his judgment about what will be funny to other people and it's all because of his long career as a night club comedian."

Early in his career Staten Island-born Ed sang for two years with Paul Whiteman's band, then moved into acting via New York radio dramas and such Broadway shows as "The Shrike" and "Stalag 17."

Laser Documentary Listed for Channel 17

"Laser—The Light of the Future" will be the topic of "Experiment" on Channel 17, Tuesday, February 14 at 10:30. The program will be repeated Saturday, February 18 at 7:30.

Dr. Arthur Schlawlow, head of the department of physics at Stanford University has conducted extensive research on the ruby laser. The story of his contributions is documentary on this program.

An electronic organ coupled to an oscilloscope helps show why getting light "in step" is so difficult. A working model of atoms demonstrates how light is produced and how the "coherent light" of the laser is generated and controlled. Subsequent sequences show Dr. Schlawlow's part in working out the physics behind the first successful laser.

Don Herbert, narrates and illustrates the content with specially built models.

Sellers Excels

Stage 67 Proves Real Merry Hour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It would indeed be quite a night out on any town if it included watching Peter Sellers in two very funny sketches, Sir Laurence Olivier in a song-and-dance bit from "The Entertainer," and Albert Finney in a scene from "Luther."

Color Treat to Eye

But television viewers of Thursday night's "David Frost's Night Out in London" on ABC had even more diversion — a few acts, none really distinguished, in London night spots and some humorous commentary between times from the host himself. Color film of the British capital by night was a treat to the eye.

Peter Sellers came off with the evening comedy honors in a hilarious sketch in which he portrayed an uncomfortable television interviewer unexpectedly confronted by a taciturn insurance salesman when he had expected a deep-sea diver. He was also amusing playing a wine-snob going through the rituals of sniffing and sipping and then unable to make any sort of an identification.

The "Stage 67" show as an amusing hodge-podge of short variety sequences stitched together with imagination and interesting change of pace. It provided a merry hour.

"Ironside," one of those made for television feature movies, stars Ramond (Perry Mason) Burr as a detective, who solves his cases in spite of being confined to a wheelchair. Like so many others of the same type in NBC's "World Premier" series, the feature is also being used for a pilot to demonstrate an hour-long weekly series.

ABC has announced that the annual "Oscar" awards show of the film industry will arrive on April 10 with Bob Hope, as usual, in charge of things.

Weekend Trips

Recommended weekend viewing:

Sunday — "Children's film Festival," CBS, 4-5 p.m. (EST) premier of a series with a Japanese film, "Skinny and Fatty"; "Bravo Picasso," NBC, 6:30-7:30, special program on the works of the artist plus an international auction, live by satellite, of one of his paintings; "The Smothers Brothers Show," CBS, 9-10, premiere of a new variety show.

'Raisin Awards'

The ancient Greeks and Romans adorned places of worship with raisins and even awarded them as prizes in sporting events, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Long Trip

After Richard Greene finished filming his long run TV series, the Adventures of Robin Hood, he took a long, long vacation aboard his 42-foot sloop. First he won a 1000-mile race from England to Portugal, then he cruised the Mediterranean. After five years of semi-retirement, he took the starring role in Ivan Tors' production of "Dangerous Island." His role? That of a scientist who sails thousands of miles across the Pacific in a 90-foot bark in search of uncharted islands.

Even Star Jimmy Stewart Must Wait for Scene Part

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It is late morning, and Jimmy Stewart has not yet appeared in a scene of his new Western. This is expensive waiting, since he remains one of the highest-paid stars in films.

The director of "Firecreek," Vincent McEveety, a newcomer from television, has been filming other scenes of a gunfight in which five desperadoes attack Stewart. One by one he defeats them, of course.

Apologizes

"Gee, I'm sorry we haven't gotten to your stuff yet," the director apologizes to Stewart, who is in his Western costume, complete with wound mark on his trouser leg.

"No problem," Stewart says assuringly.

He leans his high, leather-covered chair against a barn and talks with a visitor.

"Waitin' on a movie set has never bothered me," he says. "To me, that's the nature of the business. You can't hurry things up. Sometimes it just takes time to get what you want, and there's no explaining it."

"Y'know, that's something it'll be hard to explain to these high-finance boys who are buying into the studios. They'll send their efficiency crews out here and try to hurry things up. But the picture business isn't like running a factory. Some things just can't be automated."

No Distractions

Stewart has no distractions during the waiting periods. He doesn't try to conduct business on the telephone, doesn't read books.

"I don't like to lose sight of the character I'm playing," he explains.

Stewart has long been a Hollywood anomaly. Movie stars are supposed to be exciting, even bizarre figures off screen. Stewart is about as colorful as the Chase National Bank, yet he remains a top star after three decades. Why?

He is the best surviving delineator of the American spirit. Like his good friend Gary Cooper, he expresses the American character on the screen with immense fidelity. He plays Stewart, yet he is acting.

He discussed his feelings about acting.

Emotional Thing

"It's an emotional thing. It's a matter of getting the audience involved with the character you're playing. Hank Fonda says that acting is good only when it doesn't seem like acting. I think that's true."

Burr Well Hit

Raymond Burr's role in Ironside, one of those movies made for TV (and a pilot for a possible series), has lots more action than he used to see as Perry Mason. In the course of the script he is shot, pushed downhill in wheelchair, clobbered by a chandelier which falls on him and attacked with a blowtorch—all by delicate Geraldine Brooks.

Virginia has a total area of 40,815 square miles, of which 39,838 square miles are land and 977 are water.

"Boy, it must cost this used kayak Jeuler a bundle to sponsor all-night movies up here!"

"The main thing is involvement. You gotta be so convincing that the audience almost feels that what you're doing is actually happening. When you can do that — really get the audience involved, if only in a couple of scene — then you've got a good movie."

Stewart still hasn't appeared before the camera when the lunch break is called. He takes the limousine down the road to the lunch wagon. "Grub's pretty good here," he comments as he loads up his plate with roast beef and shrimp Newburg.

He sits under the lunch tent alongside other movie workers. As he eats heartily, he talks about his future. As soon as he finishes the movie, he'll take his annual two weeks on active duty as one-star general in the Air Force. This time he expects to go to Vietnam. He flew over the war zone on a B52 combat mission last year.

Then he'll look for his 75th movie. How long does he expect to stay in films?

"Wal, I think maybe another 5 or 10 years," he says. "You can't tell. I might find a play I'd like to do, or I might make a picture in Europe, but I like makin' pictures. I'd like to stay at it as long as I can."

"Bring me a pen, waiter! I think Mr. Harper, of Oleo Soap, is ready to okay our batch of TV commercials for next season!"

TV Shorts

What a Difference

Lovely line from Sen. Everett Dirksen, when he was taping his guest appearance on Hollywood Palace. He admitted he was a bit nervous, prior to reading from his "Gallant Men" record album. "It's a little odd doing an act instead of voting on one."

Abbey Stays Open

For the first time in its 900-year-old history, Westminster Abbey stayed open all night so a TV crew could film there for the Feb. 14 ABC-TV special, Hall of Kings. Generally the hallowed hall is open for evening services or concerts, then closes until 7:30 a. m. services.

Marines in Action

Laurence Mascott, who produced "The Brave Rifles," seen recently on ABC Stage '67, is preparing another show. This one, concerned with the Marine Corps in the Pacific in World War II, is called "Our Time in Hell."

Enjoyable Gift

Woody Allen gave his wife Louise a home entertainment center for her birthday. And he's obviously enjoying the gift, because every time a Marx Brothers or W. C. Fields movie is shown on TV, Woody gets out the video-tape recorder and records them.
